DELHI ATTORNEY KILLED AT PORT EWEN

Britain's Viceroy Of India May Try To Settle Dispute

Differences Between Gandhi and Ruler of Rajkot Draw Attention of Authorities to Serious Issues

Gandhi Weakens

Mohandas' Physicians Say His Fast Can't Last Long; Marks Sixth Strike

Rajkot, India, March 6 (AP)—The possibility of intervention by the British viceroy of India in Mohandas K. Gandhi's dispute with the native ruler of Rajkot was strengthened today as Gandhi grew weaker on the fourth day of his "fast unto death."

A morning medical bulletin said that the frail little leader was so exhausted that any attempt to sit up brought attacks of giddiness.

The viceroy, the Marquess of Linlithgow, broke a tour of the Rajputana states and hurried back to New Delhi after appeals from Gandhi's Nationalist followers and Nationalist-controlled provincial governments for pressure on behalf of administrative reforms in Rajkot.

Scores of Protests

Scores of protests against the adamant attitude of Thakore Saheb Shri Dharmendrasinhji, the native ruler, were telegraphed to Lord Linlithgow while a thousand peasants played outside the quarters where Gandhi was fasting.

It was Gandhi's sixth hunger strike and his physicians said "this time the fast will not last many days."

The bald, 69-year-old Gandhi, a wisp of a man in loincloth and shell-rimmed spectacles, lay on a rustic cot on the veranda of a native dwelling, screened from the broiling sun and the eyes of those who gathered nearby to pray.

Already he had lost two pounds, his legs were swollen, his pulse had quickened and his blood pressure had risen from 168 to 186, having gained five points this morning.

"Decidedly Weaker"

Medical attendants said Gandhi was "decidedly weaker" and that his heart could not stand the strain of the fast much longer.

Observers believed a major political crisis would be averted by the intervention of Lord Linlithgow, who reached New Delhi yesterday. A document believed to be a personal message from the viceroy was delivered to Gandhi this morning.

Personal Administration

Since no other parties were strong enough to form governments the governors would have to administer the provinces personally.

The 29-year-old Thakore Saheb, whom Gandhi calls "my son," showed no signs of giving in to the Nationalist leader's demands that the people of Rajkot be given a greater voice in the government.

Gandhi's wife, Kasturibhai, was once again in Rajkot's jail with others arrested for participation in a civil disobedience campaign after Gandhi rejected the Thakore Saheb's offer of her freedom.

Mrs. Gandhi, arrested February 3, accepted freedom conditionally yesterday. She reported she told the native ruler, "I will go and inquire of Gandhi what he would have me do."

The little holy man told her to go back to jail.

'National Scandal'

Appendicitis Death Rate Gets Vigorous Denunciation at Meeting at Atlanta

Atlanta, March 6 (AP)—The death rate from appendicitis was declared today to be as great a national scandal as the death rate from automobile accidents.

In a discussion before the Southeastern Surgical Congress here, Dr. James Reed of the University of Cincinnati declared the American death rate from appendicitis is "a national disgrace" in view of medical knowledge and public educational measures available.

"The annual toll from this disease is between 25,000 and 30,000 people, and the victims are mostly young healthy adults," he declared. "At the present time we have the highest death rate from appendicitis of any civilized country in the world."

Addressing more than 600 surgeons from southeastern, southern, and many northern states at the opening of the annual congress, Dr. Reed said more than half the annual death rate from appendicitis could be prevented.

Ambassador

Laurance A. Steinhardt, (above) now ambassador to Peru, has been named by President Roosevelt ambassador to the Soviet Union, a reliable Washington source has revealed. The post has been vacant since Ambassador Joseph E. Davies was transferred to Belgium last June.

Note Tells Details Of How Insurance Man Killed Girl

W. P. Purkhiser, Sought for Questioning in Bludgeon Killing in Oklahoma, Is Suicide in Missouri

St. Joseph, Mo., March 6 (AP)—A rambling 500-word suicide note—partly typed and partly scrawled on scraps of paper—told today the "terrible nightmare" of the killing of 13-year-old Haselteen Black, Oklahoma City Junior High School girl.

Coroner B. W. Tadlock said William P. Purkhiser, portly 53-year-old insurance man, signed the letter yesterday, then put a revolver bullet through his brain.

Haselteen's mother, Mrs. R. W. Scharber, found her beaten and strangled body in her Oklahoma City home when she returned from work Thursday with her husband, Haselteen's stepfather.

Purkhiser's partly-clad body was found by the proprietor of a rooming house here. Purkhiser had registered Saturday night. He had been sought since Saturday when it was learned he had rented an auto in Oklahoma City Thursday and had not been seen since. The auto was found Friday in Topeka, Kas.

Financial Troubles

The letter referred to financial disagreements Purkhiser had had with Mrs. Scharber, whom it said he had known since 1932.

"I went out Thursday because I did not think anybody would be home," it read, "so I would be there when the Scharbers came home, and I was going to have a talk with them and try and get things straight.

"When I found her (Haselteen) there and that she had been turned against me too, I lost all reasoning, and nothing but a terrible nightmare followed."

Haselteen was home only by chance, having returned early from school, where she became ill.

The letter, addressed to Purkhiser's wife, Mrs. Sue Purkhiser, continued:

As a Brutal Killer

"You have classed me as a brutal killer. If what you saw in the papers is what actually happened, perhaps I am. Yet there are extenuating circumstances that could be taken into consideration."

The letter, obviously written under crushing strain, seemed at times to direct itself toward Mrs. Purkhiser, sometimes to police and sometimes to the newspapers.

"Haselteen was an innocent victim of circumstances," it said, "just as she has been most of her life. In another sense, my family are innocent victims, and they should not be censured for the things I have done."

"X X X for their sake give this letter the same publicity you have given my brutality x x x when the sheriff comes, as soon he must, I will be ready with a bullet through my brain."

The letter was signed "W. P. Purkhiser."

Identity Certain

Detective Chief Charles Ryan of Oklahoma City, who arrived last night from Topeka, where he had inspected the auto, said there was no doubt the dead man was Purkhiser.

Ryan said Purkhiser once had been associated with the Scharbers and recently had tried to borrow money from them.

Haselteen was dressed in pink pajamas and a blue housecoat when found.

'Big Six' Council Replaces Regime Of Premier Negrin

General Casado, Militarist Governor of Madrid, Seizes Power in Swift Move; City Is Calm

Army Stands Firm

Besteiro Says Army Stands Pat; Observers Say New Group Would Surrender

Paris, March 6 (AP)—Diplomatic reports from Madrid said today that General Segismundo Casado, head of a new defense council in republican Spain, had offered to sue for peace with the Spanish Nationalists provided Republican leaders were guaranteed safe conduct out of Spain.

"Big Six" Named

Madrid, March 6 (AP).—A "big six" defense council dedicated to an "honorable peace or a fight to the death" replaced today after a bloodless coup the regime of Premier Juan Negrin, who had held out for "resistance to the end" in the Spanish civil war.

A dispatch from Hendaye, on the French-Spanish border, said that the probable effect of the new administration on continuation of the conflict was not apparent immediately, but that frontier observers believed the new council favored surrender to the nationalists despite a proclamation of further resistance.)

General Segismundo Casado, the military governor of Madrid, seized power in a swift move. He broadcast that: "The die is cast. We shall all save ourselves or sink together. Our struggle will not end until independence is assured."

Madrid was calm but somewhat bewildered by the rapidity of developments. A manifesto indicated that Negrin had been prevented from leaving Spain, but it was not known where he and his ministers were.

No Disorder

Julian Besteiro, a council member, in an address said: "There is no disorder. The army stands firm and holds the solution in its hands. Representatives of left-wing republicans, socialists and U. G. T. and C. N. T. (labor unions) stand with me, ready to render assistance."

General Casado early today telephoned General Jose Miaja, republican commander of air, land and sea forces in central Spain—the one-fourth of continental Spain not yet conquered by Nationalist Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

Afterwards Casado said that "we shall receive Miaja with embracing arms" and added that Miaja had told him he was joining the national defense movement and was starting immediately for Madrid, from some place in the central zone.

Revolt Begun Saturday

The revolt against Negrin began Saturday at Cartagena, the republican naval base, when a group of officers and soldiers attempted to capture the city. The uprising, an announcement by the Negrin government said, was "promptly and completely quelled," with the fleet remaining loyal.

(Five plane loads of officers fleeing Cartagena landed in French Algeria, where French authorities arrested and disarmed them. The Spanish officers said only that revolt had broken out against republican authorities and that the fleet had put out to sea for an unknown destination.)

No "Fascist" Uprising

General Casado told The Associated Press that the Cartagena revolt was not a Fascist one, but directed mainly against Negrin.

"Of course there were a few Fascist elements who took advantage of the situation," he said, "but it was exclusively against the Negrin government and a protest against certain dismissals and replacements ordered by Negrin. The revolt was quelled."

A manifesto immediately after the defense council took control scathingly referred to the Negrin cabinet as a "handful of men in whom no one had confidence any longer," and declared that Negrin had proved his inability to rule. It indicated that members of the government had been using their position to cloak their preparations for flight.

Would Eject Invaders

He urged "Spaniards on the other side" to join the national defense council so as to eject "invaders"—foreign fighters.

"Spain wants peace," he cried. "It is up to you to help her secure it. If you offer us real peace, an independent peace, we shall be glad to meet you. Otherwise we shall fight on. The question is either peace or fight until death."

Kingston More Law-Abiding

Federal Bureau of Investigation Reports That Residents Lead Those of Most Others in Cities of Same Size in United States

Kingston is shown to be more law-abiding than most other cities of its size in the country, in figures just compiled by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, according to a special dispatch from New York to The Freeman.

The number of crimes committed in Kingston in 1938, and known to the police, was 158. This was equivalent to a rate of 536 offenses per 100,000 people. For the other 357 cities in the country over 25,000 in population, the crimes totaled 1,611 per 100,000.

The Federal survey takes into account six principal types of crime, murder, robbery, assault, burglary, larceny and auto theft. In Kingston there was one murder, five robberies, five assaults, 49 burglaries, 88 larcenies, and 10 auto thefts.

President Says He Has No More for Congress

Senator Rayburn Predicts Reasonably Early Adjournment as Roosevelt Gives Impression He Is Willing—Labor Peace Committee Meets Tomorrow Afternoon

Washington, March 6 (AP)—President Roosevelt, who has taken personal charge of the administration's campaign to stimulate business, gave White House callers the impression today that he is willing for congress to adjourn as soon as it clears up its current slate.

Representative Rayburn of Texas, house majority leader and one of the congress chieftains at the weekly White House Conference, said Mr. Roosevelt reiterated that he had nothing new to submit to congress.

Early Adjournment

On that basis, Rayburn predicted a "reasonably early" adjournment.

What went on in the conference, no one would say. Those attending did have an opportunity to discuss an economy bloc contention that only by reducing expenditures can the government create industrial confidence. Mr. Roosevelt's calling in of the party leaders was the first of two actions having a bearing on business improvement.

Second, he fixed the opening meeting of the CIO-AFL peace committee for 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. It probably will be devoted to arranging procedure for the negotiations.

Revision of Taxes

The immediate legislation sought by economy advocates is a revision of business taxes. Secretary Morgenthau on Saturday promised Senator Harrison (D-Miss) and Rep. Doughton (D-NC) that the treasury would make recommendations as soon as possible after March 15 tax returns are canvassed.

Activities of Harrison's group, however, threatened to precipitate a controversy with administration proponents of continued spending that may speedily relegate to the background the senate argument over foreign policy and the defense program.

The principal fight on government expenditures may come over an administration proposal to increase the national debt limit by $5,000,000,000, a proposal regarded by some senate Democrats as the most politically-dangerous measure of the session.

Several economy-minded senators who usually follow the advice of Vice-President Garner said they were surveying the situation to determine whether action could be delayed until after the 1940 election.

UAW Bans Offices For Reds or Nazis

Faction Led by Homer Martin Forbids Elections at Parley Session in Detroit

Detroit, March 6 (AP).—The United Automobile Workers' faction led by President Homer Martin, now in convention here, amended their constitution today to forbid the election of officers who are affiliated with the Communist party or Nazi or Fascist organizations.

Martin has accused his opponents on the CIO-supported UAW executive board of being "under the influence of Communists."

Delegates, settling down to the task of setting up Martin's group as an independent union, adopted an amendment stating that "no member shall be eligible to hold office in this union or act in any official capacity for this union or any subordinate body thereof who shall be subject to orders or discipline of any party or organization such as the Communist party, Nazi or Fascist organization, which makes its interests and policies on union matters binding upon its members irrespective of the decisions, interests and policies of the union."

Other pending resolutions would alter the Union's name and set up machinery to push organization in the aircraft industry.

The convention, called by Martin, elected UAW president, in defiance of a majority of the union's elected executive board which is supported by the CIO, is in its third day. The opposing group's convention is set for March 27 in Cleveland.

Fifty-three resolutions had been prepared for presentation to the session. A number of these dealt with establishing the cleavage between the union headed by Martin and the CIO.

Would Visit Britain

London, March 6 (AP).—Prime Minister Chamberlain announced in the House of Commons today that Colonel Joseph Beck, Polish foreign minister, would visit Great Britain "shortly."

Mrs. Glass Is Hurt

Mrs. William P. Glass of 45 Janet street tripped over a wire at her home Saturday evening and fell breaking her right arm. She is at the Benedictine Hospital under care of Dr. D. S. Meyers.

Overwhelming Budget Figures Make U.S. Solons Goggle-Eyed

Chicago, March 6 (AP)—State legislators had budget spots before their eyes today.

From border to border and coast to coast, with few exceptions, solons in capitol halls and committee rooms stared at staggering figures and wore out miles of pencil lead trying to make outgo balance income.

They were confronted with all time record breaking budget totals in a half dozen states. They ruefully contemplated deficits, certain or probable, in a dozen commonwealths.

The states' financial experts, therefore, turned to proposed increases in the sales tax, income, inheritance or gift taxes, and taxes on liquor, cigarets, iron ore, electrical energy, pari mutuel betting, gasoline, oil and chain stores in their hunt for revenue.

But from Missouri, for example, came the cheerful word that it closed its last fiscal year with a balanced budget and a $4,000,000 surplus. Maine reported its budget balanced with the legislature vigilant lest old age assistance unbalance it. Kansas was required by law to operate on a balanced budget, its only unmatured bonded indebtedness being $17,250,000 for veterans' bonuses.

Iowa's legislators said they had no particular budget problem since there was a $6,000,000 general fund balance January 1. Illinois' finance director, S. L. Nudelman, said the state was financially "on the soundest basis in years," but he warned of a possible $67,000,000 biennium deficit if the legislature did not continue the 3 per cent sales tax. Illinois' indebtedness was reduced $51,000,000 in the last five years, to $188,675,000.

Record breaking budgets were proposed as follows: New York, $415,032,122; Minnesota, about

Burger Makes Plea For Help, Instead Faces Rape Trial

Ulster Park Lay Preacher, 22, Enrolled Member of Local NYA 'Talks' Himself Into County Jail

Mother Appears

Following Appeal of Man and Girl, 16, Police Call Mother; Two Statements

Alonzo Burger, 22, of Ulster Park, an enrolled member of the local National Youth Administration, a lay preacher of sorts, and a professed artist, who "talked" himself into being arrested on a charge of rape in the second degree when he walked into police headquarters shortly after 9 o'clock Sunday night, waived examination this morning in police court and was held to await the action of the grand jury. Judge Matthew V. Cahill informed Burger that the amount of bail would be fixed by a higher court.

Burger, who with several other NYA youths, has been assigned to work at the commissary of the department of public welfare, walked into police headquarters Sunday night, accompanied by a 16-year old girl.

Seeks Protection

He told Lieutenant Charles Phinney that he had called at police headquarters seeking protection as the girl's parents did not want him to keep company with the young woman. The lieutenant questioned Burger and the girl, and from what they said he decided to hold them until he got in touch with the girl's mother.

The mother came to police headquarters and after talking the matter over with the lieutenant the youth was placed under arrest on a charge of rape in the second degree, and spent the night in the county jail, while the girl was turned over to the mother.

Calls Self Quaker

Burger who is about 5 feet 7 inches in height, slimly built with dark hair and wears glasses, said that he was a Quaker and that for some time he had held religious meetings in the chapel at Binnewater, but it was now closed as the attendance was not large and it was too far away from his home.

Not an 'Evangelist'

Burger, when questioned by a reporter today while he was being held in police headquarters awaiting arraignment in police court, said he was not an evangelist but could be called a lay preacher. He said he had held religious services in various hamlets in the county where they had no regular pastor.

He has been employed on various NYA projects in the city for some time.

The police say that both Burger and the girl signed statements of having had an illicit love affair.

Two Fires Checked

The fire department was called out for two slight fires on Saturday and Sunday. The woodwork on the cabin of a barge undergoing repairs at the Feeney boatyard in Wilbur became ignited from a welder's torch. The fire department used chemicals to extinguish the blaze. Sunday evening shortly after 6 o'clock sparks from a stove that had been set up by painters in the vacant store at 106 Broadway to furnish heat while they were at work, set fire to the floor of the store. Chemicals were used to extinguish the blaze. The building is owned by Henry Gold of Chambers street.

Would Succeed James

Washington, March 6 (AP)—The White House announced today that Colonel Edwin M. Watson, President Roosevelt's military aide, would be appointed a presidential secretary to succeed James Roosevelt, about April 1. Colonel Watson, a soldier of 33 years service, will be promoted from colonel to brigadier general, effective March 31, and will retire, upon his own application, one or two days later with the higher rank. A popular aide at the White House since the start of the Roosevelt administration, Colonel Watson will be a brigadier general for only about 24 hours.

Grandfield Is Arrested

Richard Grandfield, 47, of 990 Amsterdam avenue, New York city was arrested at Esopus Sunday evening by State Trooper L. Baker of Highland on a charge of assault, third degree, growing out of an affair involving Edward Wright. It was charged by Wright that he had been assaulted by Grandfield and suffered a bloody nose. Grandfield was held for a hearing before Justice Benjamin H. Sleight. He was lodged in the county jail.

A Star Called

Passaic County Prosecutor Arthur C. Dunn, of Paterson, N. J., announced that Joseph Russo, 38, (above), an unemployed mechanic, had confessed killing his widowed mother because he "felt the call of the star in Heaven." His mother, Mrs. Marie Josephine Russo, 73, was beaten to death with a hammer while she slept.

Four Grand Jurors Fail to Appear at March Trial Term

Justice Harry Schirick Finds It Necessary Under Law to Deny Excuses Made by Some Jurors at Court

Justice Harry E. Schirick was faced with a rather unusual situation this morning at the opening of the March term of court when four of the grand jurors summoned did not respond.

Joseph Kelb of Wawarsing and William W. McElhone of Shawangunk were ill and Sheriff Abram F. Molyneaux reported Albert Wilkins of Shawangunk and Ephriam Yaffe of Wawarsing absent from the state and unserved.

Under the law governing the grand jury, 16 members must be present to transact business. Five additional members of the panel sought excuses, leaving Justice Schirick in a position where he had to deny some of the excuses presented in order to keep a quorum present. It is also customary to keep at least two additional grand jurors so that a quorum may be present in the case of illness of a member.

Two of the five seeking excuses were allowed to go, but the court retained the other three. Michael Mitchell of Kingston was not qualified as a grand juror and was allowed to go and Joseph Strubel of Kingston was excused.

Matthew A. McCourt of Marlborough was named foreman and Winnie Finch of Saugerties was named acting foreman.

After the charge by the court the grand jurors entered upon their deliberations.

Another unusual situation was presented with the trial jurors when every member of the panel answered to roll call. Nine asked to be excused and were excused. Those allowed to go were: Charles Alonge, Joseph Bloomer, Harold Bollin, Roman Boxezek, Dominick Chillura, Benjamin Dudrey, Frank Joy, William Newburgh and Henry O'Bryan. Justice Schirick directed Sheriff Molyneaux to draw six talesmen for Tuesday morning and court recessed until 2 o'clock for calendar call.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, March 6 (AP).—The position of the treasury March 3: Receipts, $16,763,226.79; expenditures, $31,196,459.42; net balance, $3,325,560,649.62, including $2,674,075,811.73 working balance; customs receipts for the month, $3,505,410.53. Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $3,695,998,790.32; expenditures, $6,029,286,657.26, including $2,059,992,928.45 of emergency expenditures; excess of expenditures, $2,333,287,866.94; gross debt, $39,927,798,705.94; an increase of $11,021,875.78 above the previous day; gold assets, $14,902,011,963.20.

Passed Red Light

Sam Turck, of 309 Second avenue, was arrested Sunday afternoon by the police on a charge of passing the red traffic light at Broadway and East Chester street. This morning Judge Cahill imposed a fine of $2 which he paid.

Sawkill Man Fined $3

Walter Chorize of Sawkill, was picked up Sunday morning on North Front street, on a charge of public intoxication. Today in police court on his plea of guilty Judge Cahill fined him $3.

John Duncan Clark Dies Instantly As New Car Hits Tree

Clark, 32, Was Son of Late Hon. John D. Clark, Former Congressman, Who Also Died in Auto Crash

Apparently Asleep

Clark Driving Car, Chauffeur on Back Seat; Humiston Gives Verdict

John Duncan Clark, 32, prominent Delhi attorney, was instantly killed shortly after 4 o'clock this morning when his Chevrolet car left the road at Port Ewen and crashed into a tree in front of the residence of Justice of the Peace Benjamin Sleight, near No. 13 public school, in Port Ewen. Clark apparently fell asleep at the wheel and the car left the road on the curve.

Clark was a son of the late Hon. John D. Clark of Delhi, congressman and former county judge of Delaware county, who met his death in 1933 in an automobile accident.

Mr. Clark was driving a new car on his way home from New York city, where he had taken his wife and daughter. With him was Ray Jefferson, colored handyman and chauffeur, who was asleep on the rear seat of the car at the time. He escaped serious injury and at the Benedictine Hospital where Jefferson was taken by the W. N. Conner Ambulance Service, it was found he suffered cuts and contusions but his condition was not expected to keep him in the hospital.

Jefferson's Story

Jefferson told Deputys Charles McCullough and Arthur Brown, who made an investigation, that they had experienced rain and fog on the way home from New York. Prior to leaving New York Mrs. Clark had begged her husband to remain in New York city with her father until morning because of the weather but they had started home and encountered bad going.

As the Clark car entered the turn near the Port Ewen school it apparently did not make the turn but swung to the left of the three strip concrete highway and struck a tree on the west side of the road.

As the car struck the tree the front seat was loosened and driven forward. The steering post was driven upward and bent and apparently Mr. Clark was struck full in the mouth by the steering post. Mr. Clark suffered very severe injuries as he struck the dash and the steering post was driven into his face. Death was immediate.

Mrs. Charles Wesley who lives nearby summoned the sheriff's men and Coroner Howard B. Humiston was called. On arrival he took charge of the body after making an investigation and had the remains moved to his undertaking parlors in Kerhonkson where an examination disclosed that Mr. Clark had suffered a broken upper and lower jaw, broken nose, his jaw was torn away and his left arm fractured. His right knee cap was dislocated and he suffered severe internal injuries. Coroner Hpmison gave his verdict as accidental death and turned the remains over to Undertaker William Hall of Delhi.

Mrs. Clark was notified of the accident in New York and the deceased man's mother was also notified.

The car which Mr. Clark was driving had been driven only 1,500 miles.

Relatives Sought

Police Ask Information About Family of Herbert Mundin, Killed in Collision

Hollywood, March 6 (AP)—Police attempted today to locate relatives of Herbert Mundin, 40, English film comedian, who was killed Saturday night in an automobile collision.

His widow, the former Ann Shaw, actress, from whom he was estranged, was reported living in New York. Pending an inquest, as yet unset, his body was held at a mortuary.

Officers said Mundin, riding with a friend, P. H. Waddell, was thrown out when the car struck another driven by John M. Grover. Neither driver was detained by police.

Lancashire born, Mundin began his stage career with Charlot's Revue, made eight command performances before King George V and Queen Mary, and entered Hollywood movies in 1931.

Among a score of his comic portrayals were those in "Cavalcade," "David Coopperfield," "Mutiny on the Bounty," and "The Adventures of Robin Hood."

Financial and Commercial

Most Securities Have Good Week

Industrial stocks closed the week, Saturday, with a gain of 0.73 point, to 149.49 in the Dow-Jones averages. Utilities just managed to make the grade, being up 0.04 point for the day, to 26.09 and rails showed a small loss, 0.02 point, to 32.98. Transactions totaled 584,560, smallest session since February 23.

For the week as a whole all classes of securities showed a gain from the closing prices on February 25. Industrial averages were up 2.67 points for the week, the rails advanced 1.73 points and utilities were ahead 0.49 point. These gains were made despite the fact that many corporation earnings reports released last week were very much on the unfavorable side, some showing deficits while numerous others showed earnings way below those reported in 1937.

Much of this news, however, had been expected and had probably been discounted by traders long before it became public. On the other hand recent declarations by those who presumably speak to a greater or less degree for the "administration" have been on the conciliatory side and have somewhat stipulated hopes for better days as far as government interference with business is concerned.

Reports of rising automobile output, building contract awards and a much better condition as concerns net earnings on the part of the railroads of the country, have been helpful influences of late and business also found some cheer in the Supreme Court decisions last week which should curb some of the more outrageous results of the working of the Wagner Act.

Following a slight decline in steel buying in February trade circles are looking for a pick-up in March. Early reaffirmation of basic steel prices for the second quarter is expected soon, in which case purchasers who have been holding off are likely to come into the market.

Present indications are that earnings of the major companies in the bread baking industry will show results for the first quarter this year at least as good as those for the first three months of 1938, which were highly satisfactory. With low wheat prices helping the present favorable condition is expected to hold into the second quarter of the year.

Consolidated net income of Pure Oil and subsidiaries for 1938 was $5,412,903, equal to 38 cents a share, as against $11,103,805, or $2.15 a share.

Celanese Corp. reports net of $2,479,749 in 1938, equal after preferred dividends to 26 cents a share on the 1,000,000 shares of common stock outstanding. In 1937 net was $4,461,227, or $2.-04 on common stock.

Rondout Lodge, No. 343, F. & A. M., will hold a stated communication this evening at 7:30 o'clock. The fellow-craft degree will be conferred. Brother Garry Brown, assistant grand lecturer, will be present and observe the work. Following the meeting, refreshments will be served and a social hour enjoyed.

Cold storage holdings of apples on February 1 were reported to be 20,585,000 bushels in the United States. This is 22 per cent less than the amount on hand the same time a year ago.

New York, March 6 (AP)—Efforts to extend last week's rally failed to attract much support in today's stock market and leaders dropped fractions to more than a point.

Buying in utilities steadied the list in the forenoon, but the majority of the power stocks eventually gave ground. A number of issues reached high territory for the past year before stumbling. Dealings picked up a bit on the reversal of trend, transfers being at the rate of approximately 800,000 shares.

Business optimism was still present in Wall Street but some speculative contingents inclined to cash profits on the thought the recent recovery in share prices entitled the market to at least a technical reaction.

A decline in this week's steel mill operating rate of .7 of a point, while not unexpected, was hardly a buoying influence for the steels.

Prominent sliders were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Westinghouse, duPont and North American.

Retaining modest advances were American Smelting, Great Northern, American Telephone, United Fruit, Zenith Radio and International Harvester.

Bonds were selectively improved. Commodities were mixed. Stocks in London were higher as war talk waned in Europe. Slightly up in the curb here Electric Bond & Share, Pantepec Oil, St. Regis Paper and Creole Petroleum.

Quotations by Morgan Davis & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, 15 Broad street, New York city, branch office 48 Main street, R. B. Osterhoudt, manager.

Mrs. Charles Nestell of 108 Henry street is a patient in the Kingston Hospital, where she has undergone a major operation.

CONGRESS HEARS PRESIDENT AND CHIEF JUSTICE

This was the impressive scene in the House of Representatives as Congress met in a memorable joint session to hear President Roosevent and Chief Justice Hughes impress the thought that this nation's defense against those who would destroy democracy is the individual liberty guaranteed by the Constitution. President Roosevelt is speaking from the restrum. Foreign diplomats sit in the gallery. Behind the President are Vice-President John N. Garner (left) and Speaker William Bankhead. The cabinet and members of the Supreme Court occupy the first row of seats facing the President. Commemorating the 150th anniversary of the first congress, the President said the United States would not "approvingly watch the return of forms of government which for 2,000 years have proved their tyranny and instability alike."

The late Dr. Charles H. Herty of Savannah, Ga., a research chemist specializing in wood pulp products, is credited by some with bringing more wealth to the South than any man since Eli Whitney invented the cotton gin.

NEW YORK PACELLIS

Louis Pacelli, 72-year-old Jordan, N. Y., farmer, who claims to be a cousin of Pope Pius XII, the former Cardinal Pacelli, is shown at home with his son's family. Pacelli thinks that his son, Pinoro, (standing) closely resembles the new pontiff. The others here are Pinoro's wife and their daughter, Rita, three.

HEDY LAMARR'S SECOND

Black-haired Hedy Lamarr, Hollywood's 23-year-old newest glamor girl, is shown with her new husband, 43-year-old Gene Markey, movie writer and producer, just after they had motored across the California-Mexico border to be married. The wedding took place before a magistrate at Mexicali, Baja California.

Trip Is Delayed

Hollywood, March 6 (AP)—Lynn Bari, film actress, and Walter Kane, Hollywood agent, today postponed a honeymoon trip to New York until she completes her current picture. The two were married last night. Miss Bari, whose true name is Marjorie Betzer, was born in Roanoke, Va.

FACTORY GOES UP IN SMOKE

A spectacular fire which destroyed the J. L. Witz Company furniture factory at Staunton, Va., is shown at its height as huge clouds of smoke darkened the sky. The fire chief estimated the loss at several hundred thousand dollars.

Seal College Is Dedicated Sunday

Seal College, Ulster county's latest institution, was dedicated Sunday afternoon by Alderman-at-Large John J. Schwenk, who addressed approximately 350 men, women and children, welcoming them to the school for show seals, across the Washington avenue viaduct.

"It gives me great pleasure to preside at this occasion," said the speaker, who was guest of honor in the absence of Mayor C. J. Heiselman, "because it marks the beginning of added fame for Kingston and Ulster county."

Seals will be trained at the college by Mark Huling and Walter Jennier, renowned showmen in their line for many years. They were introduced to the spectators by William A. Fitzpatrick, master of ceremonies, who took over the Barn, Mr. Huling's night club, last November.

The program was concluded by Buddy, Walter Jennier's trained seal. He went through his regular stage routine, then put on a water show in the huge pool, pleasing grownups and children, who marvelled at his retrieving rubber balls, the same as a trained dog, and cutting capers that are impossible to show on a stage without a pool.

Mr. Huling said that as soon as seating arrangements are completed, he will start a training schedule consisting of two shows a day.

Defiance of Government

Manila, March 6 (AP)—Philippine authorities expressed fear today the Moslem religious festival season was spurring Moro outlaws into new defiance of the government. Constabulary patrols shot and killed three Moro outlaws and wounded two others in two engagements yesterday.

Calendar, Man's Record Of the Passing of Time

The calendar was brought about by evolution. It has been regulated by mathematics and astronomy. It has been compounded of superstitions, of religious rites. It has provoked some of the great dramatic situations of history, relates Seymour Korman in the Chicago Tribune.

The reckoning of time is as old as history itself. Primitive man noted the new moon, watched it wax and wane again. He knew the moods of the seasons. There was cold and warmth and he sensed they came at regular intervals.

The ancient Egyptians calculated time from the rising of the Nile (in mid-June). The North American Indians reckoned a journey in so many "sleeps."

The Incas of Peru erected cylindrical pillars and estimated solstices by measuring the sun's shadow. The theory of this stone and shadow reckoning is familiar in the sun dial.

Civilizations such as the Mayan, the Scandinavian, and the Babylonian had distinctive calendars many thousands of years ago. In classical Greece nearly every large city had its own calendar.

The calendar depends on the sun, the moon, the earth, and a star. The rotation of the earth around the sun gives the year, the rotation of the moon around the earth gives the month, the spin of the earth on its axis defines the day, the position of a star in the heavens gives the starting point from which to measure the year.

All of the celestial motions are chronologically independent. There never can be an exact number of full days in any lunar month or solar year, nor can there be an exact number of lunar months in the solar year.

Hairy, Downy Best Known Among Woodpecker Family

Two of the best known woodpeckers, the hairy woodpecker and the downy woodpecker, range over the greater part of the United States. They differ chiefly in size, their color being practically the same. The males, like those of many other woodpeckers, are distinguished by a scarlet patch on the head, notes a writer in the Missouri Farmer.

One of the larger woodpeckers familiar to everyone is the flicker, or golden-winged woodpecker, which is generally distributed throughout the United States from the Atlantic coast to the Rocky mountains. There it is replaced by the red-shafted flicker, which extends westward to the Pacific. The two species are as nearly identical in food habits as their respective environments will allow. The flickers, while genuine woodpeckers, differ somewhat in habits from the rest of the family, and are frequently seen searching for food upon the ground.

The red-headed woodpecker is well known east of the Rocky mountains, but is rather rare in New England. Unlike some of the other species, it prefers fence posts and telegraph poles to trees as a foraging ground.

Woodpeckers apparently are the ony agents which can successfully cope with certain insect enemies of the forest, and, to some extent with those of fruit trees also.

One-fourth of all the families in the United States produced 63 per cent of all the children, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported early in 1939.

Local Death Record

The funeral of Mrs. Anna A. Gordon, wife of John Gordon, who resided at Kripplebush, was held from the M. E. Church on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. Frederick Baker, pastor of the church of which the deceased had long been a member, conducted the services. Burial was in Fairview Cemetery, Stone Ridge.

Evelyn Gage Browne, wife of the late Robert Farrell Browne, died at her home in Pittsfield, Mass., Saturday evening. Her funeral will be private from the chapel of A. Carr & Son, 1 Pearl street, Kingston, with interment in Wiltwyck cemetery. Surviving are her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Gage, widow of Edward M. Gage, formerly of Kingston; two children, Robert A. Browne of Pittsfield, Mass., and Mrs. Carl Wichmann of Pittsfield; and one sister, Mrs. Elsie Goldsworthy of Ocean Grove.

George V. McCarthy of Napanoch, for many years manager at Yama Farms, died Sunday morning at the Veterans Memorial Hospital, Ellenville, following an illness of several months. He is survived by his wife. Mr. McCarthy had a very large circle of friends who will miss his always friendly and affable greeting. He was a member of Wawarsing Lodge No. 582, F. & A. M., where he was made a Mason 20 years ago. Before coming to Yama Farms he was connected with a large business concern in New York city.

Following a Mass of requiem celebrated in St. Mary's Church this morning by the Rev. B. C. Roth, the burial of Mrs. Isabella Brennan who died here last Friday following a long illness, took place in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery. The Rev. Peter J. Fox gave the final absolution. Throughout the time her body reposed in the home of her daughter, Mrs. David Isaacson, 28 Hoffman street, scores of friends called to offer their last respects. Bearers were: Michael Brown, Jr., Clifford Bennett, Jr., James Devine, Edwin Thomas, Andrew Sweeney and Edward Coswell.

Fred K. Lynes of Bridgeport, Conn., a former resident of Kingston, died last week at his home. Burial was Saturday at Bridgeport. Mr. Lynes several years ago conducted a confectionary store on Wall street before moving to Connecticut. He was a member of Company M, First New York Volunteers during the Spanish-American war. Mrs. Lynes, the former Jesse Smith, a daughter of the late Gilead A. Smith, died several years ago. Word of the death of Mr. Lynes was received today in Kingston by Colonial Camp No. 75, United Spanish War Veterans.

Will Install Equipment

Plans to rush installation of equipment which will increase WGNY broadcasting power two and one-half times await final authority from the Federal Communications Commission, it was announced today by Patrick Simpson, Chief Engineer of the Hudson Valley Station which has its headquarters at Newburgh. Mr. Simpson's statement followed a release from the Commission on January 9th stating that an application by WGNY asking to change dial spot from local 1210 kilocycles to regional 1220 kc, increase hours to full daytime and increase power two and one-half times, had been granted.

IT WAS FRESH, ANYWAY

Budget Figures Worry Lawmakers

$79,000,000; Massachusetts, $190,000,000; North Carolina, $154,360,000; Georgia, $100,000,000; Maryland, $95,000,000; California, $557,000,000.

The likely deficits included: North Dakota, $2,000,000 to $4,000,000; Vermont, $500,000 this year, with strong efforts to balance it being made through economies; Minnesota, $4,495,000, to be offset partly by proposed increased taxes on iron ore and general levies; Rhode Island, $2,250,000 bond issue authorized by voters to cover "hangover" deficit; Georgia $11,000,000, which could be met by proposed 3 per cent sales tax, subject of heated debate; Texas, $18,000,000 cumulative, with income, transactions, retail sales or natural resources taxes proposed to meet it; Colorado, $7,500,000, with legislature deadlocked for two months over Gov. Ralph L. Car's income tax budget-balancing proposals.

Gov. Julius Hell of Wisconsin asked for a $66,750,000 budget which would need $21,500,000 in new taxes to be balanced, since the state is not permitted to borrow, and would not include relief.

Connecticut had a balanced budget after Gov. Baldwin lopped $30,000,000 off budget requests.

Gov. Culbert L. Olson of California proposed to boost taxes on higher incomes, inheritances, gifts, oil and natural gas, liquor and pari mutuel betting to balance the huge budget, except what he called an "inherited" $45,000,000 deficit.

Gov. F. P. Murphy of New Hampshire proposed a new cigaret tax to yield $525,000 a year and balance the budget.

Montana legislators balanced the budget by cutting appropriations, and adjourned.

Coast of Historic Memories

Torquay, on the south Devon coast, is visited by many travelers. Protected by the oval-shaped Lyme bay and facing due south, it is advantageously placed. In the vicinity are architectural relics of note, among them Tor Abbey, founded in 1196. After the defeat of the Spanish Armada, one of the galleys was brought into the bay. This coast of historic memories has many interesting villages and nooks for the wanderer — Teignmouth, at the mouth of the Teign, Newton abbey, and Dawlish with its picturesque cliffs. Paignton is another well-known place. Exeter is not far away, with its cathedral of notable Norman towers, the ancient city wall, the Guildhall, and the Chevalier's house once occupied by Charles II.

Use of First Railroad Rail

Wooden rails for use in mines were used as early as 1555 on a tramroad near Barnard's Castle company, Durham, England. The first use of iron plates to strengthen the wooden rails was at the Whitehaven collieries, Cumberland, England, in 1738. In 1754 iron plate rails were laid on a wagon way connecting the Coalbrookdale Iron works in Shropshire with additional smelting furnaces at Horsehey. The first iron rail over which a train operated by a steam locomotive was on the Stockton & Darlington railway, England. This road was opened September 27, 1825.

UNIMPORTANT MAN'S CHANCE

Is civilization making any progress in the twentieth century? To some people it seems to be slipping backward, hovering perilously close to a great decline if not to annihilation. Those who claim progress for it usually list the gains in science and invention rather than in social welfare.

Dr. Theodore Gerald Soares, professor of ethics at the California Institute of Technology, has a different view of the situation. "The unimportant man," he explains, "has always been valued in the aggregate. We use him. He is excellent cannon fodder in time of war, he is indispensable as the cheap labor which industry demands in large amounts. We must have the great mass of workers as the base on which the structure of civilization is to be raised. But the individual has always been insignificant.

"Very slowly we are beginning to change that attitude. Perhaps, in the large perspective of history, the real progress of civilization in this century will be seen to be not so much the marvelous material development as the slow recognition of the place of the individual unimportant worker and member of society."

Is not this the "dignity of man" which Thomas Mann says is the distinguishing feature of democracy?

HEALTHIER NATION

Not all the statistics have yet been assembled, but those now ready indicate that 1938 was probably the healthiest year in the history of the United States and Canada. That is, its death rate reached the lowest point on record, apparently only 7.7 per 1,000. Ten years ago it was 9.2

Nine of the more serious diseases registered new minimum death rates, and a tenth, tuberculosis, tied its very low 1937 figure. For the second year in succession deaths from heart disease decreased, in large part because of the special fight against the form of heart disease which affects younger person.

Unusually favorable weather is given as another reason for the general decline in the 1938 death rate, and a marked absence of influenza and other respiratory diseases often fatal to sufferers from heart trouble.

The report in question says nothing, of course, about the reduction in number of automobile accidents, which had some effect on death rate statistics.

MOUNT WISTER

Is Owen Wister read today? Perhaps we should say is "The Virginian" read? Wister wrote a number of books, but this is the one which introduced to an appreciative audience the famous phrase, "When you call me that, smile." The book was one of the best "westerns" this country ever had the fun of reading. It had everything—action, humor, romance, heroism, cow punchers, cattle rustlers, the highbrow eastern girl who married the noble though ungrammatical western man, and all the rest.

There was scenery, too. Readers were thrilled by the part played in the story by the Grand Teton mountains, providing as they did both a hide-out for the bad man, Trampas, and the idyllic lake and island where the Virginian and his bride spent their honeymoon. Ranger guides include such bits in their points of interest for visitors today.

Such reminiscences are stirred by the recent action of the United States Board of Geographical Names, which has just made "Mount Wister" the official name of an 11,480-foot peak which rises in Grand Teton National Park. It has long been the unofficial name used by local residents who knew Owen Wister when he lived there. It is a fitting tribute to the late author.

A BREAK FOR WILD LIFE

It is possible, says Dr. Leo K. Couch of Washington, to give North America a larger population of birds, fish and animals than existed on the continent in the time of Columbus. And this without driving the people out. Dr. Couch is in charge of wild-life surveys for the United States Biological Survey. He told the North American Wild Life Conference recently:

"Restore the natural food supply and cover, and give the females a chance to rear their young, and the problem is a simple one. Long and patient study has taken the guesswork out of the field of conservation."

An important part of the work to be done is stopping the pollution of streams, which destroys fish and drives out other forms of wild life. A pure-streams bill recently submitted to Congress is said to answer every objection made to previous bills of this kind. Its sponsor is Representative Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota.

The measure provides for administration by army engineers. It seems a natural addition to their normal navigation work. There may be objections in some localities, but good authorities say the job has to be done by federal agencies if it is done at all.

VANISHING CLOTHES

It is curious how this nudist business, which so shocked Americans when it appeared in Germany after the war, is spreading around this country. There are nudist camps in many states. But there is still much opposition, based less on moral grounds than on the fact that nudism became a public nuisance.

It may be all right in the South Seas, but there really seems to be very little excuse for it in this country, especially with present clothing styles. A normal man or woman can't see why anybody should want to prance around in the "altogether," in defiance of sunburn, mosquitoes, jiggers and poison ivy, when practically the same discomforts may be attained by wearing the current bathing suits and sporting "shorts."

There is a general notion, too, pretty well founded that any shedding of these vestigial and almost irreducible garments must be, in most cases, mere "exhibitionism."

It makes dictators sick to see the democracies spending all this money for armament.

NEEDED VITAMINS IN FOOD STUFFS

Some years ago, lecturing to high school and collegiate teachers—university graduates—I wrote a little text book on food, hygiene, sanitation, elementary anatomy and psychology, and effects of exercise. I turned to this book recently and found that there was no mention of vitamins in foods because little or nothing was known about vitamins at that time. I mentioned five classes of foods, proteins—meat, eggs, fish, cereals; carbohydrates—cereals, vegetables, some fruits; fats—butter, cream, fat meats; salts—sodium, potassium, magnesium and calcium; and water.

Now that vitamins are found to be so important to health, it may be wondered how we got along without them in former days. Of course, we didn't get along without them because vitamins were always in the food but were unknown until recently.

The finding of vitamins A, B, C, D, E, and others and the great influence they have upon the foods and upon the tissues of the body, has had the effect of making many forget about calories, fats, starches, proteins, and even minerals and think only about vitamins. They wonder if they are getting enough of them and the right kinds.

The discovery and use of vitamins in special cases has been of wonderful help in maintaining health and preventing certain diseases in children and adults. The very fact that rickets, once so common, is now becoming rare in some children's hospitals, can be attributed almost entirely to vitamin D in cod liver oil and vitamin C in orange juice.

However, instead of talking about the vitamins and trying to remember the effects of each vitamin on foods themselves and on body tissues, Dr. Nina Simmonds in American Journal of Digestive Juices and Nutrition says:

"There is too much of a tendency to discuss nutrition in terms of vitamins, carotene, ascorbic acid, units of various vitamins in foods and units of vitamins needed daily by the individuals."

Instead of talking about vitamins, an editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association suggests that "the question of balanced nutrition must be discussed in terms of milk, meat, potatoes, carrots, oranges or cod liver oil."

In other words if we make sure of eating some of these foods regularly (and other foods if we so wish) there will be no need to wonder whether or not we are getting enough of the necessary vitamins.

Eating Your Way to Health

Do you know which foods contain proteins, which contain fats, which contain starches, which foods are rich in minerals and vitamins? Do you know what and how to eat daily? Send today for this helpful booklet by Dr. Barton entitled Eating Your Way to Health (No. 101). Send your request to The Bell Library, 247 West 43rd street, New York, N. Y., enclosing ten cents to cover cost of service and handling and mention the Kingston Daily Freeman.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

March 5, 1919.—There were 47 cases of diphtheria under quarantine in Kingston.

Capitol Celebration Saturday Will Be Remembered as All-Party Confession of Faith

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)

Washington, March 6—Democracy celebrated its 150th birthday in a manner calculated to live long in the memory of man. The scene at the Capitol last Saturday will ever be remembered not for the extraordinary picture of the executive, legislative and judicial branches of the government in formal assembly, but for the confession of faith of all parties, all groups, all factions in the unchanging spirit of representative government.

Every word spoken seemed to carry unusual significance on account of the troubled condition of the world and particularly because of the peril into which human liberties have been thrust by arbitrary power.

Without preconceived concert and without collaboration, the utterances of America's leaders conveyed a remarkable unanimity of thought. And, whatever differences of party or economic bias may have been astir on other occasions in the same surroundings, there was not one echo of it in the wholehearted devotion of all concerned to the tenets and principles of American democracy.

The ovation to the President and to the chief justice were unmistakable in their sincerity—a combination of personal esteem and admiration and the respect which is given to high office in America. One saw Mr. Roosevelt applauding as Chief Justice Hughes was introduced and one saw the chief justice and the members of the Supreme Court joining in the testimonial to the Chief Executive.

In not a single sentence of these speeches did one observe any acrimony, even by implication, with reference to domestic controversy. But one felt throughout the ceremonies that the whole celebration was involuntarily designed to answer the skeptics who have lost faith in the efficacy of democracy as a system of government. If the contrast between the liberties that are enjoyed in free America and the suppression of liberties in the totalitarian states was evident, it was not so much in order to cast aspersions on other forms of government, but to revivify and reemphasize the American faith in her own system and in the attributes of democratic representative government throughout the world.

Mr. Roosevelt's address carried perhaps the most pointed reference of all to external happenings. When he asked whether America should "by our silence lend encouragement to those who today persecute religion or deny it," and when he answered that self-same question with an emphatic "no," he was exercising one of the American basic rights of free comment and free speech. He was endeavoring to utter the moral judgment of a nation at a time when there is somewhat of a tendency to cry out, as did Cain: "Am I my brother's keeper?" This indifference to the fate of man elsewhere, this assumption of an attitude of complete detachment from what is happening abroad, even to the point of denying a word of sympathy to oppressed human beings in other countries, is not in accord with tradition, but springs from a recently developed idea that, even when the blood of innocent persons is being spilled unjustly, there must be neutrality of word and thought.

The President renounced this concept of isolated Americanism. He might have, if he wished, gone back into the records from the beginning of the American republic to find on many occasions, in resolutions of Congress, in platform planks of both parties, in declarations by our department of state and by civic and patriotic organizations, unrestrained pronouncements of America's sympathy with downtrodden peoples.

Mr. Roosevelt might have recalled the way Americans of all parties and all classes spoke clearly their sympathy with the Irish people in their long struggle for freedom. Technically, it was none of America's business, but, morally and actually, it was a sympathy that hardly anybody in public life cared to suppress.

When the Boer rebellion was on in South Africa, party platforms expressed American sympathy in unequivocal terms, and, when the Russian government of the Czar refused to recognize the passports of American citizens because of religious or racial discrimination, there was no passive acquiescence by a Republican President, any more than there is today by a Democratic President, or craven exhortation that we should "mind our own business" and remain silent about these attacks on human liberties.

Turning to the speech of the chief justice, there were phrases which revealed an awareness of the "groundswells of autocracy" abroad and of the "direct attack and subservice influences" leveled at our institutions, and it was noteworthy that the greatest applause came as he said, "there is every indication that the vastly preponderant sentiment of the American people is that our form of government shall be preserved."

The Hughes address was a masterpiece of analysis and was filled with penetrating sentences whose meaning will live for many years as representative government weathers the storms of those who with excessive zeal seek to wield through government various arbitrary powers against the citizen. Again and again he referred to "restraint" and the wisdom of the fathers in providing "checks and balances" which may at times seem slow but are designed to "assure in the long run a more deliberate judgment." The courts are slow, he might have said, but they are not the less respected because they substitute for the haste and impulsiveness of legislative bodies the impartial though protracted examination of rights that appear to conflict in a free society. It was a great birthday for democracy and the youth of tomorrow, and future years will commemorate it again and again as they repeat in their orations and their essays the eloquent spirit of freedom which America breathes today, even as it did 150 years ago when the first Congress assembled to represent the will of the American people.

NORMAL SCHOOL NEWS

The Agonian and Pi Sigma Lambda sororities have voted to abandon the informal initiation or "hazing." Out of the six sororities who voted against dropping initiation, these two sororities have presented the logical reasoning that, "informal initiations have no place in the life of a college, they belong to our high school days." These two sororities also believe that the philosophy motivating hazing is basically wrong.

Plans have been completed for the annual house president's tea to be held March 23 in the Social Room. This tea, which is a yearly affair is given for the House Mothers of New Paltz by the House presidents. Miss Helen Vores is acting as chairman of the refreshment committee; Claire Lonergan, invitations; Marion Grusky, entertainment, and Doris Tuthill, clean-up. Several of the house presidents have been asked to act as hostesses.

A second pledge period, when girls may be extended an invitation to join a sorority, was discussed and legalized by the Inter-Sorority Council.

The Inter-sorority basketball games were brought to a final end when Clionian sorority was defeated by Artemis. The score of 46 to Clio's 16 gave the championship of the season to Artemis.

In addition to the program to be given by the Girl's Glee Club and the Chorus as already announced, the Men's Glee club has announced its program as follows: "Poetry" by Faye; Sullivan; "The Long Day Closes" by Arthur S. Sullivan; "Street Urchins" Medley arranged by J. W. B., "Bells of the Sea" by Alfred Solman and Arthur Lamb. Miss Dorothea Zangle, a freshman from Rosendale will present two dance interpretations. The one will be from the Peer Gynt by Grieg and is the Anitra's Dance.

The research laboratory of the General Electric Company is scheduled to present its "House of Magic" to the general assembly March 7.

This research laboratory was founded in 1900 by Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz and the first to head it was Dr. Willis Rodney Whitney, an instructor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Dr. Whitney, who is now vice president in charge of the research, has such men as Dr. W. D. Coldge from Masschusetts Institute of Technology and Dr. Irving Langmuir, the winner of the 1932 Nobel prize in chemistry. At present there are over 300 men actively engaged in this expansion of this scientific unit.

The week-end of March 17 and then March 25 will be a big week-end for both the adumni and the students of Normal School. The week-end designated as Homecoming Week-end will have the sororities and fraternities entertaining. The Outing Club will have a tea dance on Saturday afternoon in the social room and Saturday night the women's and the men's basketball teams will play against the alumni teams. On Saturday night, Agonian sorority will have a buffet supper, and Arethusa has planned a treasure hunt supper while Pi Sig will hold a tea Sunday afternoon.

Over 240 students attended the Freshman Hop including students, alumni and faculty. The decoration committee, headed by Marjorie Haas, had decorated the gym into a World's Fair setting. The ceiling was a myriad of pastel streamers and the four walls were covered with light blue paper. The outlines of the many outstanding buildings of the Fair were silhouetted against the walls. Along the sides of the gym were immense outlines of the trylon and perisphere. Ward Harrison and his eleven-piece orchestra of Newburgh furnished the music for dancing. Acting as patron and patronesses respectively were: Mr. and Mrs. Beebe, Miss Holt and Miss Thompson.

Personal Notes

Miss Rose Campbell and Miss Mildred Ludwig, both Juniors, have returned to Kingston for the week-end. Miss Campbell is a member of Artemis, where she resides and Miss Ludwig is a member of Pi Lambda where she also resides. The Misses Ruth Britt, Edith Jacobs, Jean Wright, and Marjorie Fitzgerald are also at home for the week-end.

Miss Evelyn Winfield, a junior, has been chosen a member of Epsilon Delta Chi, the honorary teaching society. Membership in this organization is accorded those students who have shown superior ability in practice teaching. Miss Winfield belongs to Clionian sorority and the Glee Club. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Foster Winfield, of 156 Bruyn avenue, Kingston.

Miss Shirley Fowler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fowler of Port Ewen, was elected secretary of the freshman class at the recent elections held under the supervision of the points and elections committee of student council. Miss Fowler is a member of the Normal's Glee Club and Music Association.

Miss Constance Baker, senior, has begun her cadet teaching at Saugerties. This training gives the student an opportunity to make use of the methods of teaching learned in the Normal School. Miss Baker, daughter of; the Rev. and Mrs. F. G. Baker of Stone Ridge, belongs to Ko Sdon Ya, a social organization of the school. She is a member of Chorus, Country Life Club and Outing Club. Miss Baker has been active in sports and last spring participated in an archery tournament. Albany and Buffalo State Teachers' Colleges and New Paltz Normal competed for the honors. The scores were telegraphed to Albany and the results were made known several days later. New Paltz emerged victorious with Mildred Kelley of Washingtonville, a student at the Normal, scoring the highest number of points.

Miss Vivian Boice, senior, recently completed her cadet teaching at Toddville, where she taught in the primary grades. This training gives the student an opportunity to put into practice methods of teaching learned in the Normal School. Miss Boice, daughter of Horace Boice of Kingston, is a member of Epsilon Delta Chi, honorary teaching society. Membership to this organization is accorded those students who have shown marked teaching ability. She is a member of the Normal's Outing Club and Country Life Club; last year she was secretary of the Agonian Sorority. Miss Boice has participated in a number of sports including soccer, basketball and baseball.

Miss Mary O'Connor, senior, has recently finished her cadet training at Putnam Valley in grades one and two. Miss O'Connor is the daughter of Charles O'Connor. At New Paltz, Miss O'Connor has been active in Glee Club and Chorus, having sung at various entertainments. She is a member of the Riding Club, International Relations Club, Clionian Sorority, and recently served on the Junior Prom committee.

UNIMPORTANT MAN'S CHANCE

Is civilization making any progress in the twentieth century? To some people it seems to be slipping backward, hovering perilously close to a great decline if not to annihilation. Those who claim progress for it usually list the gains in science and invention rather than in social welfare.

Dr. Theodore Gerald Soares, professor of ethics at the California Institute of Technology, has a different view of the situation. "The unimportant man," he explains, "has always been valued in the aggregate. We use him. He is excellent cannon fodder in time of war, he is indispensable as the cheap labor which industry demands in large amounts. We must have the great mass of workers as the base on which the structure of civilization is to be raised. But the individual has always been insignificant.

"Very slowly we are beginning to change that attitude. Perhaps, in the large perspective of history, the real progress of civilization in this century will be seen to be not so much the marvelous material development as the slow recognition of the place of the individual unimportant worker and member of society."

Is not this the "dignity of man" which Thomas Mann says is the distinguishing feature of democracy?

HEALTHIER NATION

Not all the statistics have yet been assembled, but those now ready indicate that 1938 was probably the healthiest year in the history of the United States and Canada. That is, its death rate reached the lowest point on record, apparently only 7.7 per 1,000. Ten years ago it was 9.2

Nine of the more serious diseases registered new minimum death rates, and a tenth, tuberculosis, tied its very low 1937 figure. For the second year in succession deaths from heart disease decreased, in large part because of the special fight against the form of heart disease which affects younger person.

Unusually favorable weather is given as another reason for the general decline in the 1938 death rate, and a marked absence of influenza and other respiratory diseases often fatal to sufferers from heart trouble.

The report in question says nothing, of course, about the reduction in number of automobile accidents, which had some effect on death rate statistics.

MOUNT WISTER

Is Owen Wister read today? Perhaps we should say is "The Virginian" read? Wister wrote a number of books, but this is the one which introduced to an appreciative audience the famous phrase, "When you call me that, smile." The book was one of the best "westerns" this country ever had the fun of reading. It had everything—action, humor, romance, heroism, cow punchers, cattle rustlers, the highbrow eastern girl who married the noble though ungrammatical western man, and all the rest.

There was scenery, too. Readers were thrilled by the part played in the story by the Grand Teton mountains, providing as they did both a hide-out for the bad man, Trampas, and the idyllic lake and island where the Virginian and his bride spent their honeymoon. Ranger guides include such bits in their points of interest for visitors today.

Such reminiscences are stirred by the recent action of the United States Board of Geographical Names, which has just made "Mount Wister" the official name of an 11,480-foot peak which rises in Grand Teton National Park. It has long been the unofficial name used by local residents who knew Owen Wister when he lived there. It is a fitting tribute to the late author.

A BREAK FOR WILD LIFE

It is possible, says Dr. Leo K. Couch of Washington, to give North America a larger population of birds, fish and animals than existed on the continent in the time of Columbus. And this without driving the people out. Dr. Couch is in charge of wild-life surveys for the United States Biological Survey. He told the North American Wild Life Conference recently:

"Restore the natural food supply and cover, and give the females a chance to rear their young, and the problem is a simple one. Long and patient study has taken the guesswork out of the field of conservation."

An important part of the work to be done is stopping the pollution of streams, which destroys fish and drives out other forms of wild life. A pure-streams bill recently submitted to Congress is said to answer every objection made to previous bills of this kind. Its sponsor is Representative Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota.

The measure provides for administration by army engineers. It seems a natural addition to their normal navigation work. There may be objections in some localities, but good authorities say the job has to be done by federal agencies if it is done at all.

VANISHING CLOTHES

It is curious how this nudist business, which so shocked Americans when it appeared in Germany after the war, is spreading around this country. There are nudist camps in many states. But there is still much opposition, based less on moral grounds than on the fact that nudism became a public nuisance.

It may be all right in the South Seas, but there really seems to be very little excuse for it in this country, especially with present clothing styles. A normal man or woman can't see why anybody should want to prance around in the "altogether," in defiance of sunburn, mosquitoes, jiggers and poison ivy, when practically the same discomforts may be attained by wearing the current bathing suits and sporting "shorts."

There is a general notion, too, pretty well founded that any shedding of these vestigial and almost irreducible garments must be, in most cases, mere "exhibitionism."

It makes dictators sick to see the democracies spending all this money for armament.

NEEDED VITAMINS IN FOOD STUFFS

Some years ago, lecturing to high school and collegiate teachers—university graduates—I wrote a little text book on food, hygiene, sanitation, elementary anatomy and psychology, and effects of exercise. I turned to this book recently and found that there was no mention of vitamins in foods because little or nothing was known about vitamins at that time. I mentioned five classes of foods, proteins—meat, eggs, fish, cereals; carbohydrates—cereals, vegetables, some fruits; fats—butter, cream, fat meats; salts—sodium, potassium, magnesium and calcium; and water.

Now that vitamins are found to be so important to health, it may be wondered how we got along without them in former days. Of course, we didn't get along without them because vitamins were always in the food but were unknown until recently.

The finding of vitamins A, B, C, D, E, and others and the great influence they have upon the foods and upon the tissues of the body, has had the effect of making many forget about calories, fats, starches, proteins, and even minerals and think only about vitamins. They wonder if they are getting enough of them and the right kinds.

The discovery and use of vitamins in special cases has been of wonderful help in maintaining health and preventing certain diseases in children and adults. The very fact that rickets, once so common, is now becoming rare in some children's hospitals, can be attributed almost entirely to vitamin D in cod liver oil and vitamin C in orange juice.

However, instead of talking about the vitamins and trying to remember the effects of each vitamin on foods themselves and on body tissues, Dr. Nina Simmonds in American Journal of Digestive Juices and Nutrition says:

"There is too much of a tendency to discuss nutrition in terms of vitamins, carotene, ascorbic acid, units of various vitamins in foods and units of vitamins needed daily by the individuals."

Instead of talking about vitamins, an editorial in the Journal of the American Medical Association suggests that "the question of balanced nutrition must be discussed in terms of milk, meat, potatoes, carrots, oranges or cod liver oil."

In other words if we make sure of eating some of these foods regularly (and other foods if we so wish) there will be no need to wonder whether or not we are getting enough of the necessary vitamins.

Eating Your Way to Health

Do you know which foods contain proteins, which contain fats, which contain starches, which foods are rich in minerals and vitamins? Do you know what and how to eat daily? NORMAL SCHOOL NEWS

The Agonian and Pi Sigma Lambda sororities have voted to abandon the informal initiation or "hazing." Out of the six sororities who voted against dropping initiation, these two sororities have presented the logical reasoning that, "informal initiations have no place in the life of a college, they belong to our high school days." These two sororities also believe that the philosophy motivating hazing is basically wrong.

Plans have been completed for the annual house president's tea to be held March 23 in the Social Room. This tea, which is a yearly affair is given for the House Mothers of New Paltz by the House presidents. Miss Helen Vores is acting as chairman of the refreshment committee; Claire Lonergan, invitations; Marion Grusky, entertainment, and Doris Tuthill, clean-up. Several of the house presidents have been asked to act as hostesses.

A second pledge period, when girls may be extended an invitation to join a sorority, was discussed and legalized by the Inter-Sorority Council.

The Inter-sorority basketball games were brought to a fast end when Clionian sorority was defeated by Artemis. The score of 46 to Clio's 16 gave the championship of the season to Artemis.

In addition to the program to be given by the Girl's Glee Club and the Chorus as already announced, the Men's Glee club has announced its program as follows: "Poetry" by Faye; Sullivan; "The Long Day Closes" by Arthur S. Sullivan; "Street Urchins" Medley arranged by J. W. B., "Bells of the Sea" by Alfred Solman and Arthur Lamb. Miss Dorothea Zangle, a freshman from Rosendale will present two dance interpretations. The one will be from the Peer Gynt by Grieg and is the Anitra's Dance.

The research laboratory of the General Electric Company is scheduled to present its "House of Magic" to the general assembly March 7.

This research laboratory was founded in 1900 by Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz and the first to head it was Dr. Willis Rodney Whitney, an instructor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Dr. Whitney, who is now vice president in charge of the research, has such men as Dr. W. D. Coldge from Masschusetts Institute of Technology and Dr. Irving Langmuir, the winner of the 1932 Nobel prize in chemistry. At present there are over 300 men actively engaged in this expansion of this scientific unit.

The week-end of March 17 and then March 25 will be a big week-end for both the adumni and the students of Normal School. The week-end designated as Homecoming Week-end will have the sororities and fraternities entertaining. The Outing Club will have a tea dance on Saturday afternoon in the social room and Saturday night the women's and the men's basketball teams will play against the alumni teams. On Saturday night, Agonian sorority will have a buffet supper, and Arethusa has planned a treasure hunt supper while Pi Sig will hold a tea Sunday afternoon.

Over 240 students attended the Freshman Hop including students, alumni and faculty. The decoration committee, headed by Marjorie Haas, had decorated the gym into a World's Fair setting. The ceiling was a myriad of pastel streamers and the four walls were covered with light blue paper. The outlines of the many outstanding buildings of the Fair were silhouetted against the walls. Along the sides of the gym were immense outlines of the trylon and perisphere. Ward Harrison and his eleven-piece orchestra of Newburgh furnished the music for dancing. Acting as patron and patronesses respectively were: Mr. and Mrs. Beebe, Miss Holt and Miss Thompson.

Personal Notes

Miss Rose Campbell and Miss Mildred Ludwig, both Juniors, have returned to Kingston for the week-end. Miss Campbell is a member of Artemis, where she resides and Miss Ludwig is a member of Pi Lambda where she also resides. The Misses Ruth Britt, Edith Jacobs, Jean Wright, and Marjorie Fitzgerald are also at home for the week-end.

Miss Evelyn Winfield, a junior, has been chosen a member of Epsilou Delta Chi, the honorary teaching society. Membership in this organization is accorded those students who have shown superior ability in practice teaching. Miss Winfield belongs to Clionian sorority and the Glee Club. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Foster Winfield, of 156 Bruyn avenue, Kingston.

Miss Shirley Fowler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fowler of Port Ewen, was elected secretary of the freshman class at the recent elections held under the supervision of the points and elections committee of student council. Miss Fowler is a member of the Normal's Glee Club and Music Association.

Miss Constance Baker, senior, has begun her cadet teaching at Saugerties. This training gives the student an opportunity to make use of the methods of teaching learned in the Normal School. Miss Baker, daughter of; the Rev. and Mrs. F. G. Baker of Stone Ridge, belongs to Ko Sdou Ya, a social organization of the school. She is a member of Chorus, Country Life Club and Outing Club. Miss Baker has been active in sports and last spring participated in an archery tournament. Albany and Buffalo State Teachers' Colleges and New Paltz Normal competed for the honors. The scores were telegraphed to Albany and the results were made known several days later. New Paltz emerged victorious with Mildred Kelley of Washingtonville, a student at the Normal, scoring the highest number of points.

Miss Vivian Boice, senior, recently completed her cadet teaching at Toddville, where she taught in the primary grades. This training gives the student an opportunity to put into practice methods of teaching learned in the Normal School. Miss Boice, daughter of Horace Boice of Kingston, is a member of Epsilon Delta Chi, honorary teaching society. Membership to this organization is accorded those students who have shown marked teaching ability. She is a member of the Normal's Outing Club and Country Life Club; last year she was secretary of the Agonian Sorority. Miss Boice has participated in a number of sports including soccer, basketball and baseball.

Capitol Celebration Saturday Will Be Remembered as All-Party Confession of Faith

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)

Washington, March 6—Democracy celebrated its 150th birthday in a manner calculated to live long in the memory of man. The scene at the Capitol last Saturday will ever be remembered not for the extraordinary picture of the executive, legislative and judicial branches of the government in formal assembly, but for the confession of faith of all parties, all groups, all factions in the unchanging spirit of representative government.

Every word spoken seemed to carry unusual significance on account of the troubled condition of the world and particularly because of the peril into which human liberties have been thrust by arbitrary power.

Without preconceived concert and without collaboration, the utterances of America's leaders conveyed a remarkable unanimity of thought. And, whatever differences of party or economic bias may have been astir on other occasions in the same surroundings, there was not one echo of it in the wholehearted devotion of all concerned to the tenets and principles of American democracy.

The ovation to the President and to the chief justice were unmistakable in their sincerity—a combination of personal esteem and admiration and the respect which is given to high office in America. One saw Mr. Roosevelt applauding as Chief Justice Hughes was introduced and one saw the chief justice and the members of the Supreme Court joining in the testimonial to the Chief Executive.

In not a single sentence of these speeches did one observe any acrimony, even by implication, with reference to domestic controversy. But one felt throughout the ceremonies that the whole celebration was involuntarily designed to answer the skeptics who have lost faith in the efficacy of democracy as a system of government. If the contrast between the liberties that are enjoyed in free America and the suppression of liberties in the totalitarian states was evident, it was not so much in order to cast aspersions on other forms of government, but to revivify and reemphasize the American faith in her own system and in the attributes of democratic representative government throughout the world.

Mr. Roosevelt's address carried perhaps the most pointed reference of all to external happenings. When he asked whether America should "by our silence lend encouragement to those who today persecute religion or deny it," and when he answered that self-same question with an emphatic "no," he was exercising one of the American basic rights of free comment and free speech. He was endeavoring to utter the moral judgment of a nation at a time when there is somewhat of a tendency to cry out, as did Cain: "Am I my brother's keeper?" This indifference to the fate of man elsewhere, this assumption of an attitude of complete detachment from what is happening abroad, even to the point of denying a word of sympathy to oppressed human beings in other countries, is not in accord with tradition, but springs from a recently developed idea that, even when the blood of innocent persons is being spilled unjustly, there must be neutrality of word and thought.

The President renounced this concept of isolated Americanism. He might have, if he wished, gone back into the records from the beginning of the American republic to find on many occasions, in resolutions of Congress, in platform planks of both parties, in declarations by our department of state and by civic and patriotic organizations, unrestrained pronouncements of America's sympathy with downtrodden peoples.

Mr. Roosevelt might have recalled the way Americans of all parties and all classes spoke clearly their sympathy with the Irish people in their long struggle for freedom. Technically, it was none of America's business, but, morally and actually, it was a sympathy that hardly anybody in public life cared to suppress.

When the Boer rebellion was on in South Africa, party platforms expressed American sympathy in unequivocal terms, and, when the Russian government of the Czar refused to recognize the passports of American citizens because of religious or racial discrimination, there was no passive acquiescence by a Republican President, any more than there is today by a Democratic President, or craven exhortation that we should "mind our own business" and remain silent about these attacks on human liberties.

Turning to the speech of the chief justice, there were phrases which revealed an awareness of the "groundswells of autocracy" abroad and of the "direct attack and subservice influences" leveled at our institutions, and it was noteworthy that the greatest applause came as he said, "there is every indication that the vastly preponderant sentiment of the American people is that our form of government shall be preserved."

The Hughes address was a masterpiece of analysis and was filled with penetrating sentences whose meaning will live for many years as representative government weathers the storms of those who with excessive zeal seek to wield through government various arbitrary powers against the citizen. Again and again he referred to "restraint" and the wisdom of the fathers in providing "checks and balances "which may at times seem slow but are designed to "assure in the long run a more deliberate judgment." The courts are slow, he might have said, but they are not the less respected because they substitute for the haste and impulsiveness of legislative bodies the impartial though protracted examination of rights that appear to conflict in a free society. It was a great birthday for democracy and the youth of tomorrow, and future years will commemorate it again and again as they repeat in their orations and their essays the eloquent spirit of freedom which America breathes today, even as it did 150 years ago when the first Congress assembled to represent the will of the American people.

DANGEROUS SERVICE

Chapter 41

Married To Trouble

"THE cruiser 'H.M.S. Gallant' is lying off Valencia," said Tony. "They are evacuating a whole batch of poor devils tomorrow, and taking them to Portsmouth. Will you go?"

"If you want me to. But how shall I know you are safe?" she begged. "You can't leave me wondering till I reach England That would be too much, Tony. Though I believe I should know if anything happened to you, my darling.

He frowned. "I want to see you safely away before me," he insisted.

"But if I waited two days, I'd at least know if you'd got through. And Peter, how do I know you won't both——"

He stopped her. "Peter isn't coming A little while ago, if he'd had this chance, he'd have taken it. But now, with things looking like happening here, his job is in Madrid."

"My job will soon be in Valencia, helping Clare." His arm went round her He smiled at her.

"But not yet! Look here, I've an idea. After I leave Burgos, I shall go home; either by ship or by air. We're going to have a fortnight, at least, in England together I tell you what I'll try to do If all's well, I'll either send you a wireless message, or I'll get hold of a plane, and fly over the 'Gallant' as you pass Ferrol, and wave to you But failing either piece of actual evidence that I'm still alive, you mustn't worry, you must go on taking it for granted I'm all right, till you hear the reverse One can't always be up to time. But I'll try Will that do?"

She kissed him. "That will do Thank you, my darling."

Misery

SITTING on the deck of H M S "Gallant," Petronella played snakes and ladders with Rosita, a little girl who spoke no English, and was now six years old.

The decks were so packed with her fellow refugees, that it was best to play some game which did not entail running about Petronella blessed the young officer who had lent them this apparently internationally popular game. He was one of the first people she had seen when they came aboard, and was an old friend. She had once danced with him, aboard another ship, in Alexandria. His game had kept this olive-skinned child good, now, for an hour, while her mother wept, and tried to sleep.

The days were improving as they steamed up the coasts of Portugal and Spain The cold, the strain, and their crowded conditions had made the shelterless decks a misery in the Mediterrancan, until they passed Gibraltar At one period the good-natured British sailors had thought it expedient to line the rail, to prevent those who had lost everything, and, therefore, saw little reason to cling to life, from allowing themselves to be unresistingly washed back with the green seas which broke over the decks But that had been their zero hour, when they had run straight out of Valencia into high seas. Most people had been horribly sick. Gradually, patient kindliness, and amazing organization had succeeded. Desperation had given place to resignation.

Those who, like Petronella, were good sailors, had all been a little hungry for the past two days. But despite the discomforts, she and the younger people had managed to enjoy their rescue.

'We may not have much to offer you to eat, but there's always plenty of this in the British Navy," Lieutenant Jim Blake had rallied them, as he gave yet another cocktail party in his now commandeered cabin.

But there was little comfort one could offer to these silent men and women on deck who sat, huddled, looking at the coast of the country they had left.

Lieutenant Blake came and stood beside Petronella on deck, when they neared Ferrol. Rosita now played snakes and ladders with a small, dark-eyed boy, quarreling shrilly, and appealing to the grown ups, who would not listen

Blake searched the coastline with his binoculars.

Petronella said, "I can see the white houses." But he knew what it was Mrs. Lance wanted to see, and his cheerful, red face assumed an expression of anxious sympathy, and false optimism.

"He'll be along, Petrel. Don't you worry. But what did you have to go and marry a fellow who undertakes jobs like that for, eh? Plenty of others to choose from, and you had to pick him!" he smiled at her. There was admiration in his eyes.

Joy

"I DON'T know, Jim Of course, the navy wasn't in port at the time!" But she laughed, incredulously She had not had a bath for four days. She had slept in her clothes. The mirror in her handbag had been trodden on and broken, and her powder compact rolled overboard, between the rails, by little Rosita. Yet Jim Blake was still prepared to tell her that she looked attractive. Either he must be extremely chivalrous, or most uncritical.

But as a matter of fact, he was neither. Standing beside this taut, slender girl, he decided that love improved some women, lighting their eyes, and enhancing their expression. He was hoping very sincerely that everything would be all right, for this new Petronella.

She asked faintly, "We're nearly past now, aren't we?"

"Getting on," he admitted.

Petrel turned her head away, so that he should not see her face pucker.

"I don't think he'll be coming now. Perhaps he will send me a radiogram, later," she spoke, to spare him the trouble of trying to reassure her Nothing he could say could lessen her suspense.

But he seized her arm. "Listen, Petrel!"

She swung abruptly round. "I hear it, too!" He pointed.

"By jove, he's done it. He's coming out from Ferrol Look, against the land there. Now, catching the sun!"

"I see! Oh, Tony, Tony!" she was laughing, crying, both One hand gripped Jim Blake's, the other the rail. He, in his heart, was praying that they had not made a mistake. They saw the plane make straight towards them from the coast. It was a small machine It looked as if Petrel was right. It was traveling fast.

"I don't suppose she carries wireless. No loving message this time," Jim told her He was glad, because she was glad.

"I don't need any other message."

A shriek went up from the decks. Were they to be attacked, even at sea?

The plane was nearly overhead With a roar of engine, it swooped low over the bridge, and the decks in a gay salute. Petronella could see Tony's head and shoulders plainly. He waved from the cockpit He was hatless. She waved back, wildly excited. Rosita, who had rushed and clung to her knees, blinked and waved, and squeaked. Rising again, before the British Navy had had time to hoist a signal of remonstrance at dangerous flying, the plane turned and headed northwards. Petrel followed it with Jim Blake's glasses, till Tony's head became indistinct.

"He will be home before me," she sighed, lowering them, and gazing after him in deep satisfaction.

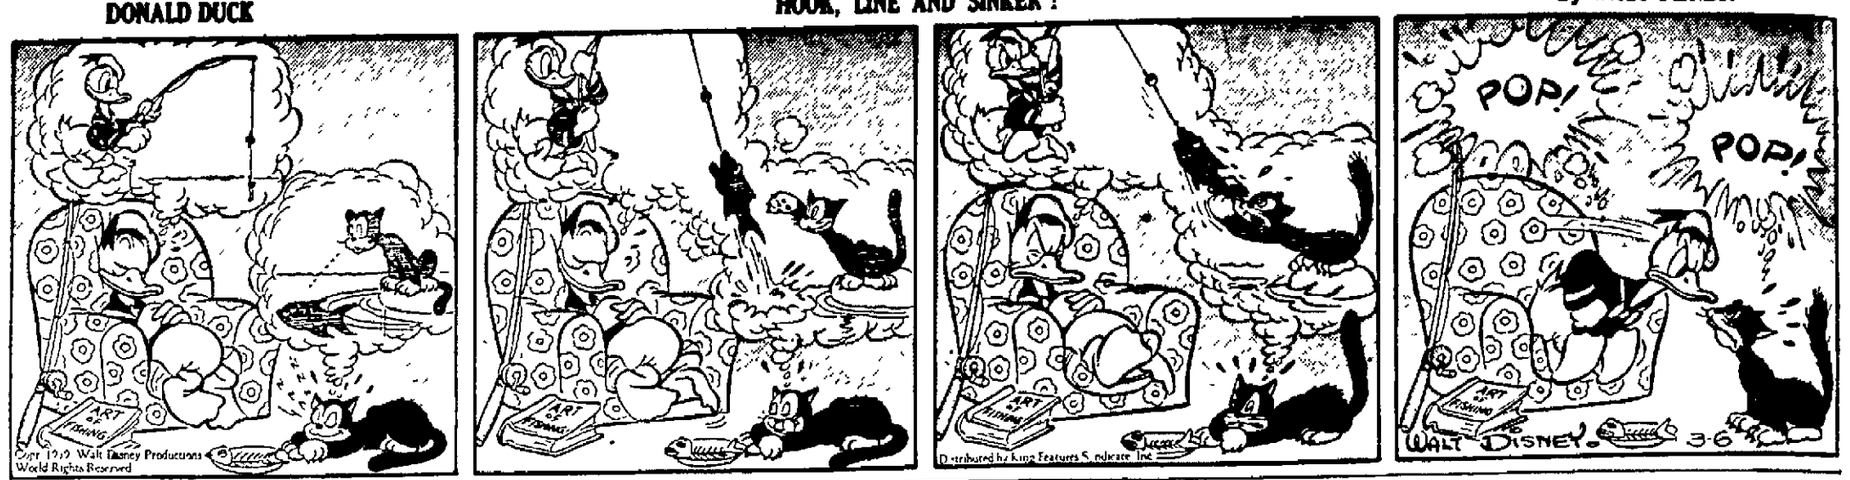

"But how long will he stay there?" She smiled, without turning her eyes from Tony's plane

"That is something you don't have to ask, if you're married to trouble."

HOLLYWOOD—Sing a song of censors, a pocketful of lye, there are certain movie lensers would like to see 'em fry. . . .

The only difference between "Yes, My Darling Daughter" and some of the other flickers passed by the good New York board is that the forbidden one shows the heroine talking the matter over with mamma and grandma before she goes to spend the night . . . And when she spends the night, she does it as innocuously as (say) Gable and Colbert in "It Happened One Night"—in which it didn't happen either!

And speaking of censors. . . . .

There's a chap named Gustav Machaty making a movie out here today, and I'll bet nine out of ten fans can't place the name . . . . He's the fellow who directed "Ecstasy" in which a gal later named Hedy Lamarr became famous . . . Machaty (you can say it Mockuhty if you like) has been buried in Hollywood . . . . Made a short or two, now is directing an 18-day flicker called "Within the Law" which in its day, I believe, shocked theatergoers as much as "Ecstasy" shocked some censors. . . .

* * *

"WITHIN THE LAW" has been filmed about three times before, and its power to shock has waned with the changing of times and manners . . . . With a cast including pretty Ruth Hussey and newcomer Tom Neal, plus a revamped script, "Within the Law" ought to be as exciting morally as a Hardy family epic—unless Machaty, despite a quickie shooting schedule, manages to slip in some Machaty magic . . . . He has permission to essay a little "silent treatment" on the big courtroom sequence, but for protection he's shooting it with dialogue also . . . . "Ecstasy" was virtually a silent picture, and the director hopes to achieve a repeat of the technique on a courtroom set, which is naturally the talkiest place in the talkies. . . .

* * *

HOWARD HAWKS and Josef von Sternberg were assigned once to work together on a movie . . . . Within a week the two directors had branched out in different directions, and the upshot was they called the whole thing off . . . . Later (under W. S. Van Dyke) it came forth as "The Prizefighter and the Lady," with Myrna Loy and Max Baer . . . . Which is just another proof of the notion that no two directors work alike.

Anyway, von Sternberg is off again on one called "Sergeant Madden," starring Wallace Beery . . . . Inside on the advice given Joe from the front office before production started: "Beery has been playing Beery for 26 years—for Pete's sake don't try to give us 'a new Wallace Beery!'"

Owl's Mistake

Peesane, Sask. (AP)—An owl evidently mistook a rope for a snake. Grace Elliott, eight, was dragging her skipping rope along the road. A big white own swooped down, snatched the rope and flew away.

It Can't Be Done

To have their cake and eat it, too,
Is what some folks would like to do,
Who, without dint of toil and strife,
Would reap the benefits of life.
They seem to think all things are free
For which is paid no currency,
Though other forms of pay attend
By which they pay up in the end.
While they may reap no pain nor tears,
In gleaning thus throughout the years,
Whene'er a struggle they must make
That much more effort doth it take.
Something for everything they get
These folks will ever pay, and yet
They keep on thinking they can win
From this life more than they put in.

TWINS RETURN

At nine o'clock Saturday night, at the dress rehearsal for the minstrel show to be presented tomorrow night in Epworth Hall, the famous "BOHEMIAN TWINS" for whom the whole city has been searching walked in as best they could on their size 18 feet, just as if nothing had happened. When asked where they had been they replied "Zombie Zuck Whoppo Soonie" which, when translated means "We Go Bye Bye."

Even though injured when one of the Twins caught its foot in a trap. The show will go on as per schedule, and the famous gigantic "BOHEMIAN TWINS" will appear at both performances.

Academy Students Give Sacred Play

"The Master of Death," a religious play in three acts and a prologue was presented in St. Mary's school auditorium Sunday afternoon by the students of the Academy of St. Ursula. The play was given Saturday afternoon to a children's audience but Sunday's performance for the adults was the real showing of the play.

The story dealt with the dramatic episodes of Holy Week from Palm Sunday to Good Friday with the prologue showing one of the miracles performed the previous year. Between the scenes the historian, Patricia McCabe, revealed the story that was to be enacted.

Colorful and elaborate costumings and an effective stage set of a villa of a Roman Centurion added to the drama of the scenes but constant entering and leaving of people in the audience made difficult a clear appreciation of the story being enacted upon the stage.

The prologue took place in the Centurion's villa near Capharnaum in which his servant and friend is raised from the dead before the eyes of the mourning household while the Centurion is out beseeching aid from the "Master of Death."

The following three acts were laid in the Centurion's villa in Jerusalem. The first was on Palm Sunday. The children of the Centurion return with tales of the Palm Sunday procession and the driving out of the money changers. The merchants come to the home of the Centurion and ask for aid in driving out this "thief and upstart" who overthrew the tables. Here they are confronted with the unshaken loyalty of the Centurion and his family.

The happenings of Maundy Thursday were shown in the second act. Claudia Procla, wife of Pontius Pilate, comes to tell the Centurion's wife of the plans for the seizing and the betrayal by Judas.

The final act reveals the story of the sentence, Claudia tells of her dream and the crowd passes the house on the way to Golgatha. The Centurion's eldest daughter, Veronica, rushes out for a last look and wipes Christ's face with the veil belonging to Claudia. On her return, she opens the veil to show the blood stains and the face of the "Master of Death" shines through it.

The diction of each character was particularly noticeable as clear and precise, and the parts taken by Jacqueline Robinson as the Centurion's wife, and Margaret Lewis as Claudia Procla, were the best portrayed.

Brandow-Ludwig

Frank Miller Brandow of Bethel, Conn., and Freda Marie Ludwig of Brewster were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at the home of William C. Schryver, 254 Albany avenue, by the Rev. C. L. Palmer.

Engagement Announced

Shepherds of Bethlehem Meet

The Deputies and Past Deputies Association of the Shepherds of Bethlehem held an interesting meeting in Poughkeepsie Sunday afternoon. The Supreme Commander, James Costello of Philadelphia was present and also representatives from Albany, Troy, Kingston, Hudson, Poughkeepsie and Newburgh. Mrs. Frank Shaw of East Chester street, who was appointed deputy supreme commander for Albany district in 1938 was appointed Sunday to the supreme publicity committee. The Shepherds of Bethlehem organization is known throughout the United States as one of the orders for fraternalism and is a beneficial order. Founded 40 years ago it has gained in membership until now every state in the Union has a supported lodge.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Just get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a reliable "WOMAN'S" tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and those disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. Pinkham's is WELL WORTH trying.

Home Service

Smooth Manners Bring Good Times

To Charm, Be Sure of Etiquette

Goodness, Peggy — fumbling with the key yourself, when etiquette says your escort should unlock your door for you.

You show you're used to dating, know the rules when you let your beau perform such little services—help you out of cars, assist you with wraps.

Of course, you let a man pay all expenses when you're his guest at a date. But sometimes you may wish to entertain, take him to a club affair for which you've bought tickets. Tactful to give him the tickets before you start, then let him pay taxi fare, other little expenses.

You'd like to have a certain young man call? He may think you're "chasing" if you ask him to drop in alone, but correct to invite him when you're having other friends.

When a man says, "It's been so nice to meet you," don't get flustered but show your poise with "I've enjoyed meeting you too."

Boys flock around the girl who is gracious, smooth-mannered—so learn all-important rules of etiquette from our 32-page booklet. Tells what's correct at the office, dinners, dances, movies, house parties. Pointers on the petting question.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of ETIQUETTE FOR YOUNG MODERNS to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and the NAME of booklet.

Men's Club Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Men's Club of Fair Street Reformed Church will be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The Fair Street Church Club will be guests of St. James M. E. Church Men's Club Wednesday evening.

The New Hanover Fishing club at Wilmington, N. C., claims its paid up membership of 762 is the largest of any similar club in America.

MODES of the MOMENT

by Adelaide Kerr

Pleats appear in juvenile as well as grown-up fashions this spring. Miss Ten-Year-Old's dusty blue frock, striped in white and darker blue, is stitched to make a plain fron panel, releasing unpressed pleats below. It's made of spun rayon, woven to resist wrinkling during a school day or a long ride in the car. Miss Six-Year-Old's white-dotted pink dimity frock is pleated, too, and is trimmed with ric-rac braid.

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By Lichty

"Butch Jones is a holdout this year—Since he moved outa the neighborhood he won't sign a contract to play ball unless we pay his carfare over!"

Jock Sutherland Resigns as Coach

Pittsburgh, March 6 (AP).—Resignation of head football coach Dr. John Bain (Jock) Sutherland today climaxed two years of squabbling over athletic policy at University of Pittsburgh.

Just why he decided to vacate after 15 years of directing the once powerful Pitt Panthers was not disclosed immediately but it was evident turbulent history of athletics at the school precipitated his action.

This celebrated builder of great grid juggernauts and maker of All-Americans had only to say he submitted his resignation, effective at once, and pending a huddle with Chancellor John G. Bowman "I do not care to say anything more."

The University in all probability will not stand in Sutherland's way.

Rosendale Society Asks Information On Early Letters

James C. Huben, New York attorney, today issued an appeal in behalf of the Rosendale Society of New York for photostatic copies or the loan of original documents pertaining to the colonial history of Rosendale.

It is the desire of the society to make photostatic copies of such material and great care would be taken of any papers loaned.

Mr. Huben would be pleased particularly in locating two letters signed by George Washington addressed to Col. Johannes Hardenbergh. These letters were known last to be in the possession of Mrs. Henrietta Cornell Wood about 1905 when Mrs. Wood was living in the Cornell Homestead, Rosendale.

Persons with such documents or information pertaining to the material in question are asked to communicate with Mr. Huben at 61 Broadway, New York city.

It is not the desire of the society to have such valuable papers entrusted to the mail. Personal calls would be made to guarentee the safety of all material.

Centralization of buildings and operations to save travel, time and labor is the main idea in planning a modern poultry plant.

SUPREME COURT, County of Ulster—Rondout Savings Bank, Plaintiff, against Max Baker, Ida Baker and Howard A. Lewis, Chauncey Lane and Bart C. Van Ingen, as trustees of an express trust created by and for waiving depositors of the National Ulster County Bank and Trust Company of Kingston, N. Y., Defendants.

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale duly made and entered in the Ulster County Clerk's office, in the above-entitled action, on the 6th day of March, 1939, I, the undersigned referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction on the 29th day of March, 1939, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at the front door of the Ulster County Court House, in the City of Kingston, N. Y., the premises directed by said judgment to be sold and therein described as follows:

Parcel No. 1. ALL THAT CERTAIN PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND in Rondout (now City of Kingston), Ulster County, N. Y., described as follows: Beginning at a point on Mill street, about eighty-two feet from the corner of Mill Street and Broadway (formerly Division Street), and on the northwardly side of Mill Street, and running thence along the westerly side of the brick building now on said premises, and continuing beyond said building on a course North Forty-eight degrees West, or about that course, to a point fifty feet from Mill Street; thence North Forty-two degrees East, or about that course, along a brick wall, about eighteen feet; thence North forty-eight degrees West, or about that course, fifty feet; thence North forty-two degres East, or about that course, twenty-one feet and one inch, more or less, to a point which will be on a line of the prolongation of the easterly side of the brick building now on said premises; thence southerly along said line and along said easterly side of said brick building one hundred feet to Mill Street; thence South forty-two degrees West along the northwardly side of Mill Street thirty-nine feet one inch to the point or place of beginning. Being No. 9 & 11 Mill Street, together with the three-story brick building thereon. Being part of the same premises conveyed by Alton B. Parker, Referee, to Sarah Jane Tongue, by deed dated June 23, 1881, and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's office in Book No. 274, at page 181. And being the same premises conveyed by said Sarah Jane Tongue to Samuel Baker (now deceased) and Max Baker, party of the first part hereto, by indenture of deed dated April 12, 1911; acknowledged April 14, 1911; and recorded April 17, 1911 in Liber 431 of Deeds, at page 150, Ulster County Clerk's office.

Parcel No. 2. Also, ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, with the buildings thereon, situate in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York, and being at Rondout, and partly covered by the water of the mill pond, lying on the westerly side of Hasbrouck Avenue, being three hundred and eighty-six feet front on said Avenue and one hundred feet deep. Beginning at a point on the westerly side of said Avenue in a course South seventy-three degrees and fifty minutes West from a cedar stump known as the corner and place of beginning in the description of a lot of land conveyed by said Jansen Hasbrouck and Gabriel W. Ludlum to Tompkins & Hedden on the first day of July, 1844, and running thence North sixteen degrees and ten minutes West along the said Avenue three hundred and eighty-six feet to Joseph Bowman's lot; thence South seventy-three degrees and fifty minutes West along said Bowman's lot to the corner thereof one hundred feet; thence South sixteen degrees and ten minutes East three hundred and eighty-six feet; and thence North seventy-three degres and fifty minutes East one hundred feet to the place of beginning. Being the same property conveyed by Jansen Hasbrouck and Charlotte Ostrander to James G. Lindsley by deed bearing date the 1st day of May, 1852, and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's office in Liber No. 82 of Deeds, at page 576, July 7, 1852.

Excepting from and out of the (next) above described parcel of land all those pieces or parcels of land heretofore conveyed by James G. Lindsley and Sarah E., his wife, to the respective persons hereinafter named, which are as follows:

James G. Lindsley and wife to John Wilson by deed dated Feb. 1, 1854, recorded in Ulster County Clerk's office in Liber No. 91 of Deeds, at page 647, Jan. 8, 1855, being 10 feet on Hasbrouck avenue.

James G. Lindsley and wife to Joseph Hutton by deed dated Feb. 1, 1854, recorded in Ulster County Clerk's office in Liber No. 91 of Deeds, at page 648, Jan. 8, 1855, being 10 feet on Hasbrouck Avenue.

James G. Lindsley and wife to Paul Goldsworthy by deed dated Aug. 1, 1857, recorded in Ulster County Clerk's office in Liber No. 108 of Deeds, at page 82, May 11, 1859, being 36 feet on Hasbrouck Avenue.

James G. Lindsley and wife to John Atkinson by deed dated March 1st, 1865, recorded in Ulster County Clerk's office in Liber No. 129 of Deeds, at page 616, March 6, 1865, being 50 feet on Hasbrouck Avenue.

James G. Lindsley and wife to Susan Snelling by deed dated Sept. 1, 1866, recorded in Ulster County Clerk's office in Liber No. 138 of Deeds, at page 520, Sept. 12, 1866, being 50 feet on Hasbrouck Avenue.

James G. Lindsley and wife to Rebecca McLean by deed dated March 29, 1873, recorded in Ulster County Clerk's office in Liber 185 of deeds, at page 141, being 50 feet on Hasbrouck Avenue.

To each of said deeds reference is hereby made for a more full and particular description.

Also excepting therefrom a street 50 feet wide which is known and designated as Union Street, which was heretofore laid out through a part of said lands.

The property hereby intended to be conveyed is bounded and described as follows. All that tract or parcel of land situate in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York, on the westerly side of Hasbrouck avenue, being four inches in width from the westerly corner of said Hutton's lot on said Hasbrouck Avenue; thence along said Hutton's line twenty-three feet ten inches; thence eleven inches to said Lindsley's lot, being four inches in front, twenty-three feet ten inches deep and eleven inches in the rear, and being a portion of the same premises described hereinbefore as excepted and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's office in Book of Deeds No. 91, at page 648, and being the same strip of land conveyed by Joseph Hutton and wife to James G. Lindsley by deed dated May 23rd, 1896, and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's office in Liber No. 339 of Deeds, at page 531.

Also, all that certain tract, piece or parcel of land situate in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York, bounded and described as follows: Being on the northwest corner of Hasbrouck Avenue and Union Street and known as the Columbia Flats and faces or fronts on Hasbrouck Avenue, and a frame dwelling facing or fronting on Union Street immediately in the rear of said Columbia Flats, the same together are bounded on the north by lands of Joseph Hutton; on the east by Hasbrouck Avenue; and on the south by Union Street; and on the west by the lands (now or formerly) of Patrick Larkin; and being about fifty feet in front on Hasbrouck Avenue, fifty feet in rear, and one hundred feet in depth along Union Street and also along the property of Joseph Hutton.

Being the same property devised to Laura B. Lindsley by the last will and testament of James G. Lindsley, which said will was duly admitted to probate by the Surrogate of Ulster county on the 24th day of January, 1899, and a copy of which was recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's office in Liber No. 318 of Deeds, at page 183, January 30, 1899, at 2 o'clock and 45 minutes P. M. And also being the same premises as were conveyed by said Laura B. Lindsley to Francis Fabian by deed dated February 18, 1902, which said deed was recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's office in Liber 369 of Deeds, at page 559, on Feb. 21, 1902. And being the same premises as were conveyed by said Francis Fabian to Rachel Baker (now deceased) and Ida Baker, party of the first part hereto, by indenture of deed dated Nov. 14, 1905, and recorded in Liber 389 of Deeds, at page 351.

Dated March 6, 1939.

Stone Ridge Grangers Close With Win Over Rosendale

The Stone Ridge Grangers defeated their old enemies the Rosendale Firemen, Saturday night, 33-27, in a game packed with thrills from gong to gong. Charlie Neff and Johnny Gilday put on a show by themselves scoring 12 field goals between them. Each made 13 points.

Chappie Cooper, Bob East and Pine played a very fast floor game. Hokie Rask and Gil Kelder were the big guns for the fire eaters. The Grangers, who all season have been hard to stop, were out to win and did so in a fitting climax to a very good season. The Grangers record is 21 wins and four losses. The string of victories takes in such teams as Uptown Merchants, Corliss Five of Poughkeepsie, R. and M., Forsts, White Eagles, Michaels of Saugerties, High Falls, Leonards, Newburgh, Boston Cleaners and Rosendale.

Plan Rifle Meet

Weyburn, Sask. (AP)—Negotiations are underway for an international rifle shoot here next summer. An invitation has been extended the 164th United States Infantry of Williston, N. D., to participate.

Forty-eight Americans, 164 Swiss, 65 Hollanders and 70 Frenchmen live at the Portuguese colony in Africa, Mozambique.

Morans Lose Last Games 29-35

Completing their schedule during the week-end, the hard-fighting "Purple and Gold" quintet of the Moran Business School defiantly gave way to Hurleyville High School 35 to 29.

Marking their finish of a very successful season, the Moran Cagers played inspired ball and were outpaced only in the closing minutes of the contest when the mountain quintet displayed the brand of ball which has made them leading contenders in the Catskill Mountain League for many seasons.

Werner led his varsity cagers with 12 points to a win over the future business men, while Art Crist paced the local quintet garnering 15 markers with Ed Snyder accounting for 11.

Reiser and Kaplan Star in Week-end Contests; Jewels Lose Exhibition to Local Club

The Heurichs of Washington were "chicken" for the Colonials in their week-end game, which ended 42-24 in favor of Barney Sedran's clan.

Anxious to hold their edge over the Sphas, the Colonials bore down from the first toss and piled up an overwhelming lead, which forced them to hold back in the closing session, during which the Brewers battled with them on even terms.

By winning, Kingston strengthened its hold on first place and fortified itself for that Wednesday night game at the municipal auditorium with the Brooklyn Visitations, who dropped two decisions over the week-end.

The Sphas, eager for victory in order to strengthen their pennant chances in the American League, upset the Jersey Reds, 41-34, Saturday, but lost Sunday by one point to the New York Jewels, 33-32.

In an exhibition game Saturday, the Jewels bowed to the Colonials, 16-31. Sammy Kaplan ran off with the Kingston scoring honors in this tilt by garnering 11 points. Chick Reiser with 10, was high man in the Washington contest for Barney Sedran's cagers.

Indications are that the Colonials will add the Vissies to their string Wednesday, although they cannot help but remember that the Brooklynites gave them a stiff battle on their last visit to the auditorium.

Shultis and Dubin Make All DUSO League Team of K. H. S. Sports Writer

Kingston High School again dominates in the selection of All DUSO teams. Jesse Shultis and Milt Dubin have been nominated by Irwin Thomas, high school correspondent for The Freeman, for the paper's All DUSO team. Middletown also has two of its star players, Freddie Speiser and Gene Quackenbush, on the lists.

The team: Forwards, Isadore Meadows, Liberty, and Jess Shultis, Kingston; center, Eugene Quackenbush, Middletown; guards Milton Dubin, Kingston, and Frederick Speiser, Middletown.

Liberty High, represented by only one member on the first string of players and Kingston also rule the second team selection. Lou Hasbrouck and Don Crook are the Indian members while the Maroon and White Warriors have Ray Van Buren and Andy "Rambler" Murphy. The other man making the team is Howard Havens, forward of Newburgh.

Reserves: Moe Nissenbaum, Ellenville; Bernie Liftshitz, Monticello; George Dougherty, Kingston; Jimmy Harrison, Port Jervis; Ray Lindhurst, Kingston; Harry Flowers, Kingston, and Chuck Reilly, Monticello.

Hard to Select

In the final selection of the first team the only difficult job was that of the guard slots. Here Dubin and Speiser are undoubtedly the finest backcourt stars of the league. Fred is noted for his ability to score and for his defensive play. Milt Dubin takes the edge over any other man for his spectacular style of play. Pressing Dubin was his own teammate, Andy Murphy. Murphy lost out though on experience. Even though Dubin has been on the shelf for two weeks he rates the not over his buddy.

At right forward is Jess Shultis, one of the best men ever to don a basketball uniform. Last year when he subbed for Charlie Bock he won the praise of every rival coach in the league. In the majority of the games this year Jess has been watched by enemy teams more closely than during the 1938-'39 campaign. However, he still broke away enough of times to drop in 135 points in league competition.

Isadore "Yutch" Meadows is Shultis' mate at left forward. Like Kingston's Andy Murphy, Meadows startled the league with his ease of grabbing points and all-around perfect work. "Yutch" was the No. 1 man in the downing of Kingston a few weeks ago. Although not possessing the skill of Jess Shultis, Meadows of Liberty is unquestionably one of the best forwards in the loop.

Gene Quackenbush is Middletown's second representative. He takes the center post in a close fight with Ray Van Buren, Paul Mapledoram and Austin. The Hughesmen towering pivot player has tallied 76 points to date with still one game to be reported. Playing with a "darkhorse" team Quackenbush had a difficult assignment to reach his last year's peak.

Undoubtedly any coach in the league would jump at the idea if he should be offered to tutor the second team list of standout players. Men such as Van Buren, Havens, Crook, Murphy and Hasbrouck are nearly as good as their pals on the first team. In Don Crook Liberty had one of the best and most efficient defensive guards in the league. Hasbrouck took up where his famous brothers left off and sliced himself laurels. In the final checking Lou nearly bested Meadows for the forward post on the first stringers.

Howie Havens was the lone Newburgh athlete to be called upon for All DUSO recognition. The center slot on the yannigans goes to Ray Van Buren who was one of Kingston's mainstays all season. It wasn't until the first Ellenville battle that Ray got started. But after that he was plenty dangerous.

Poughkeepsie Wins Beal Trophy . . . Armstrong vs. Lewis, Wow!

So, Embee is Mary Butler! . . . Congrats on that bowling chatter young lady. . . But, why didn't you give us the whole low-down on Meb Lynch's acting in that minstrel? . . . Joe Wenzel tells us the "widder" joke is giving this popular baseball manager a few gray hairs. . . But, it shouldn't be hard for Meb to keep them plucked out. . . Monk Armstrong faces his heaviest fistic assignment Friday night. . . He's matched with Bradley Lewis, international middleweight star . . . If Monk wins, his chances of getting into the national Golden Gloves in San Francisco will be tops. . . He's training hard for the match under the direction of Kid Chappie at Johnny Manfro's gym, downtown. . . Now that the All DUSO teams have been announced, Irwin Thomas, high school correspondent, sounds off with this one: "G. W. Kias is the all around coach." . . . Nobody will disagree either. . . . Those Fitzgerald Brewers are happy. . . . They trimmed the Uptown Merchants 44-41, Saturday. . . . It's Cliff Quick and Bob East at Nick's tonight in the city billiard tourney. . . . At the Y. M. C. New Singles and Doubles Leaders In Women's Bowling Tournament

Binghamton, N. Y., March 6 (AP).—Individual bowlers changed the standings in the eighth annual New York State Women's Bowling Association tournament over the week-end while only one team could break into the top five.

With the Solareks of Salamanca moving into second place in the Class B team standing, other competing teams were unable to beat scores previously hung up by leading pinsters.

In individual events, however, both Class A and B singles and doubles had new leaders after yesterday's bowling.

A pair of Elmira doubles teams ousted previous leaders in Class A when Hosley and Alba hit 1,097 to take first place while Plum and Heet rolled 1,085 for the second spot. Hartelben of Rochester hit 589 to take the Class A singles lead.

M. Curnelia and J. Pooler of Norwich took the lead in Class B doubles with a 992 performance, while Strobel and Wysocki of Syracuse finished second with 987. Miss Valentine of Rochester rolled to first place in the all-events with 1,619.

The standings to date:

Class A—Pure Quill, Rochester, 2,466; Pep's Recreation, New York, 2,430; German Tavern, Poughkeepsie, 2,393; C-M. Forward, Rochester, 2,393; Shappee's Red-White, Elmira, 2,361.

Class B—Benedicts, Syracuse, 2,436; Solareks, Salamanaca, 2,365; New Delaware, Syracuse, 2,280; Bul-Al-Po, New York State, 2,275; Coca Cola, Elmira, 2,266.

Class A Doubles—Yosley-Alba, Elmira, 1,097; Plum-Heet, Elmira, 1,085; Sellmayer-Martin, Rochester, 1,037; Baker-Logan, Albany, 1,015; Hilbert-Hartleben, Rochester, 998.

All Events—Valentine, New York, 1,619; Hartelben, Rochester, 1,603; Martin, Rochester, 1,576; Hood, Elmira, 1,526; Hilbert, Rochester, 1,510.

Class A Singles—Hartelben, Rochester, 589; Valentine, New York, 559; Martin, Rochester, 554; Diehl, Rochester, 551; Sullivan, Poughkeepsie, 551.

Class B Doubles — Curnelia-Pooler, Norwich, 992; Strodel, Wysocki, Syracuse, 987; Haller-Heildelburg, Buffalo, 985; M. Decker-D. Decker, Rochester, 975; Gillespie-Silvernail, Poughkeepsie, 948.

Class B Singles—Hood, Elmira, 542; Hay, Binghamton, 525; Schulz, Utica, 520; M. Devonis, Rochester, 518; Gillespie, Poughkeepsie, 511.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

(By The Associated Press)

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Joe McCarthy, manager of the world champion New York Yankees, keeps his answers handy. When it became known yesterday that Spurgeon (Spud) Chandler would be lost at least half the season because of a broken ankle, someone suggested to McCarthy he faced a problem as to starting pitchers. "It's not the starters you have to worry about, give me the finishers," retorted Marse Joe.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—President Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals today disillusioned any club owners who might be cyeing the holdout of Slugging Joseph Michael Medwick. "Nothing doing," he broadcast. "We're not trading Medwick under any circumstances."

Avalon, Calif.—Phil Cavarretta is holding down first base in workouts of the Chicago Cubs these days, indicating to some observers Manager Gabby Hartnett means to give him the starting nod over Rip Collins. The favored outfield combination has been Augie Galan, Hank Leiber and Joe Marty.

Lake Charles, La. — Connie Mack labelled the initial intramural game of his Philadelphia Athletics a "huge success." The veteran leader liked the sparkling play of Joe Gantenbeing at third base and at bat as well as the zip of Bill Lillard, his new shortstop.

Pasadena, Calif.—The Chicago White Sox are grooming Eric McNair for second base in the event Jack Hayes doesn't recover properly from an operation on his knee. Luke Appling was due today, leaving only the ailing Gerald Walker still out of the fold.

San Antonio, Tex. — Their calisthenics and warming up over, the St. Louis Browns turned to more specific drills today. Manager Fred Haney called on the pitchers to try some of their stuff, with the batters giving a rebuttal. The signing of Roy Hughes, reserve infielder last year, brought the squad nearer a full complement.

Clearwater, Fla.—Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who made a lot of Brooklyns gasp by indicating he probably would play Tuck Stainback in the outfield ahead of Goody Rosen, explained it all with one question today: "Why shouldn't I play Stainback? With him in there last year we played .500 ball. That'd get us in the first division."

San Bernardino, Calif.—Most of the Pittsburgh Pirates pitchers were losing the soreness caused by their first conditioning today, but a few ailments hung on. Russell Bauers limped on blistered feet, Mace Brown's legs were stiff from chasing flies and Truett Sewell spent the week-end in his hotel room with a sore throat.

Boxing Program At the Auditorium Here on Friday

Alexander-Storace

Stellar Card of Adirondack A. A. U. Matches Listed for This Week's Bill of Fistic Attractions

A boxing card that should pack the municipal auditorium Friday night was announced today, featuring Monk Armstrong, local Diamond Belt champion, vs. Bradley Lewis, international middleweight star, and Hurd Alexander, Albany welterweight star, vs. Cozy Storace, Rome sensation, well known to local fans of fistiana.

The winner of the Armstrong-Lewis match will compete in the Albany finals to choose a middleweight for Adirondack A. A. U. representation in the national Golden Gloves tournament at San Francisco, Cal. When informed about the bout, Monk Armstrong said he intended to fight harder than ever. "Lewis is recognized as the best middleweight in the world," said Monk, "but I'm going in there and give him the hardest battle he ever fought. I want to do this for Kingston."

There's little doubt but that this duel will attract fans from far and near, most of whom will probably cheer for Armstrong. The local Diamond Melter fought his way up from the bottom in less than two years, numbering among his victims Red Van Alstyne, the Ravena boy who is now a professional in the same stable as Vince Sempervino and Tommy Zano.

Hurd Alexander's sensational exhibitions here against George Spidaro and Warren Jones, whom he defeated, tagged him as one of the best 145 pounders ever to show in the auditorium, and his battle with Cozy Storace is rated as a great drawing attraction.

In other matches, Don Aiken, Rome streak of lightning, will box Leo Sarinelli, Albany bantamweight flash, who is angling for a match with Dom Perfetti, national champion from Amsterdam; Donald Dixon of Rome will meet Georgie Spidaro of Albany and Billy Pinti, another Rome gladiator, is pitted with Joe DiPolo of the capital city.

Charlie Raigins of Saugerties will meet Jackie Bullock, Albany law student, and a match is being arranged between Martin Peterson of New Paltz and Casimir Brazowski of Albany.

K.H.S. Scores 652, Opponents 416

A final check on statistics show that Kingston High School's DUSO champions for the fourth consecutive season, outscored their opponents by 236 points. Kingston picked the wicket for 652 markers, while their 16 opponents chucked in 416.

Kingston's lowest score in any game resulted in a battle with Newburgh, the second of the season. Here the Maroon and White warriors only garned 23 points. The final game of the campaign was the highest total for the champs. Against Ellenville last week they poked in 52 markers.

Quick, Russell Win at Billards

Cliff Quick continued his "rolling way" toward the city pocket billiard title at the Kaslich parlor yesterday afternoon when he defeated Walt Jeghers 100 to 75. Quick had a run of 27 against Jeghers best of 15 and played steadier pool to defeat the "dark horse" with plenty to spare.

In the evening match, which in score and runs was nearly a duplicate of the afternoon affair, Meine Russell showed the way to Bob East by the same 100 to 75 score. He had a run of 25 two less than Quick's best in the first game, and Bob East had a run of 15 exactly the same amount as that of Jeghers in the earlier match.

Tonight, Quick who looks more and more like the man to beat in this year's tournament, will tangle with Bob East.

Judge Davis Gives Doubt Certificate To Miss Cleveland

White Plains, N. Y., March 6 (AP)—Supreme Court Justice Lee Parsons Davis today granted a certificate of reasonable doubt to Helen Cleveland of Poughkeepsie, now in the Dutchess county jail under a three year sentence for criminal negligence in the operation of an automobile.

Justice Davis announced his decision here today, saying it had been sent to Poughkeepsie for filing. The signing of the formal order will admit Miss Cleveland to bail pending an appeal from the sentence, Judge Davis said.

Application for the certificate was made over a week ago by former Supreme Court Justice John Mack, her attorney, who charged that his client did not have a fair trial.

Justice Davis granted the certificate on the basis of two errors permitted to enter the record in the course of the cross examination of Dr. Barton McC. Cunningham, a physician who testified that he saw Miss Cleveland shortly before the head-on collision which resulted in a death. She was sober at that time, he said.

District Attorney Schwartz asked Dr. Cunningham two questions, which Justice Davis today held were in error and should not have been permitted to go into the record. One was whether or not he had been suspended from the staff of the Northern Dutchess Health Center. Mr. Mack objected to the question and at that time moved for a mistrial. Judge Flannery overruled him.

The second question was one concerning whether or not Dr. Cunningham had been in Dutchess County jail for contempt of court. This too was objected to, but only after the whole matter had been threshed out before the jury.

"The errors here are not technical," Justice Davis said in his decision, "but affect the credibility of an important witness to a vital issue."

Negress Is Hurt

Irene Jones of 3 Converse street, a negress, slipped and fell on the sidewalk on Broadway, near the Orpheum Theatre shortly after 9 o'clock Sunday evening. She was rushed to the Kingston Hospital in one of the police radio cars. She suffered bruises and a head injury. Her condition today was reported as good at the hospital.

Court Review Refused

Washington, March 6 (AP).—The supreme court refused today to review an attack by the Carlisle Lumber Company of Onalaska, Wash., on a labor relations board order requiring reinstatement of 147 discharged employes with $185,000 back pay. Without explanation the tribunal refused to pass on a decision by the ninth federal circuit court upholding the order.

Herbert B. Whilden, a bookkeeper, who died at Charleston, S. C., in 1935, left $1,250 each to North Carolina and South Carolina to be used for educational purposes.

New Pastor Gives First Sermon Here At Rondout Church

The Rev. David Linton Doherty preached his first sermon as pastor in the Rondout Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning. He succeeds the Rev. James N. Armstrong, Jr., who resigned a year ago to accept a call to become pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Southampton, L. I.

The Rev. Mr. Doherty comes to Kingston from Milford, N. J., where he served the Presbyterian Church there for 14 years as pastor. He is married and the father of two daughters, Mary Elizabeth, and Anna.

At the church service Sunday the new pastor announced that he would move his family to Kingston on Tuesday. They will reside at 330 Broadway, which the church has leased as the manse.

The Rev. Mr. Doherty will have charge of the preparatory services in the chapel on Thursday evening, and will preside at his first Communion service in the church next Sunday morning.

After completing a full Presbyterian college and seminary course in Ohio, and a post-graduate course at Princeton University, the Rev. Mr. Doherty was pastor of the Beemerville Presbyterian Church, and later served the Oxford Presbyterian Church in New Jersey until called to the pastorate of the Milford Presbyterian Church, where he served for 14 years and was active in the religious and civic life of the community, serving as a member of the Board of Education.

Origin of Morgan Horse Traced to Other Breeds

The founder of the house of Morgan in the horse world was a horse born about 1789—the property of Justin Morgan, who kept a tavern in Springfield, Mass., until he moved to Randolph, Vt., in the same year that was foaled the colt which was to perpetuate its owner's name. No one seems to have any knowledge of the blood strains of this famous sire, writes Capt. Maxwell M. Corpening in the Chicago Tribune. Some historians of Morgan horses say he was anything from a thoroughbred to a Canadian pony. Others claim many infusions of Arab, Barb, and Turkish blood. Be that as it may, a good horse was produced.

This founder of the clan was named Figure at birth, but renamed Justin Morgan when its offspring started to gain fame. He was a small horse, only 14 hands high and weighing 950 pounds; dark bay in color, with black legs, mane, and tail. The latter were coarse and heavy but not thick. His head was good but not very small—the forehead broad, with small ears set far apart. His eyes were medium size, dark, and prominent, with a pleasant but spirited expression. His back and legs were his most noticeable points—the former being extremely short, with shoulder blades and hip bones long and sloping. The legs were short, close-jointed, and thin, but with very wide bone and extremely well muscled for a horse of his size.

AFTER THE SHIPWRECK

The Duke of Sutherland, lord steward of the household of King George VI, and his duchess describe the wreck of their yacht after their arrival in Los Angeles. They had been cruising with Vincent Astor's yacht Nourmahal. "You see," said the Duke, "we were just having a pleasure cruise when a rock in the Gulf of California, not chartered on our maps, snagged a hole in the bottom of the Sans Peur." The Nourmahal's crew made temporary repairs and the yacht was towed to California, after the Duke and Duchess had been transferred to T. O. M. Sopworth's yacht Philante.

Representatives at Oil Companies' Dinner

Freeman Photo

The H. & R. and Gulf oil companies held a dinner and social at Huling's Barn Thursday evening for all dealers and operators formerly employed by A. R. Newcombe, whose accounts were taken over by the combined companies that day. Approximately 150 operators and their wives attended the good-will party. Among the speakers present were, left to right: James W. Brown of New York city, Gulf Oil Company credit manager; George Spoolstra, distributor for Delaware and Otsego counties; Frank J. Hartsen of Rochester, sales supervisor; Robert R. Gardner, Albany sales supervisor, and Ernest J. DuBois, local distributor.

Pleads Guilty Today

White Plains, N. Y., March 6 (AP)—Mrs. Marie Hite Burckhalter this afternoon pleaded guilty in county court to manslaughter in that she aided and encouraged her husband to commit suicide on November 19 last in the garage of their Hastings home. Mrs. Burckhalter entered her plea to County Judge Frank H. Coyne over the objections of her counsel, Mortimer C. O'Brien, who told the court it was contrary to his advice.

Guests included County Treasurer and Mrs. Vanderlyn T. Pine, Deputy Treasurer and Mrs. Luther Dusinberre, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gippert, Miss Eleanor Young, Mrs. Louise D. Kleiss, Miss Lillias A. Nelson and Walter A. Costello.

Former Ellenville Pastor May Take Sing Sing Post

There is an understanding, although no official announcement has been made, that in event, as is expected, the Rev. John P. McCaffrey, chaplain at Sing Sing prison for the past 16 years becomes pastor of St. Joseph's Church in this city, he will be succeeded at Sing Sing by the Rev. Bernard Martin, now serving as chaplain at the New York Training School for Boys at Warwick.

Father Martin was a popular assistant pastor at St. Mary's Church, Ellenville, for about three years and while there took a great interest in the work for boys. He organized Troop No. 25, Boy Scouts at St. Mary's in April, 1933, and was chairman of the troop committee. The troop continued until Father Martin's transfer to Bronxville, but was dropped in 1935. He has been chaplain at Warwick for the past year.

Mrs. Jean A. Thayer, for the past four years executive secretary in the office of Lester W. Herzog, state WPA Administrator, at Albany, has received an appointment in the diplomatic service. Mrs. Thayer has been appointed clerk in the consul general's office in Berlin. She is to sail Thursday to take up her new duties. The appointment is for two years. Mrs. Thayer has numerous friends in Ulster county.

George Yagel Rrested

George Yagel, 34, real estate man of 59 Union street, Oneonta, was arrested in Kingston Sunday by Sergeant E. J. Hulse and Kingston police on information that he was wanted in Oneonta on a check charge. He was held in the county jail for transfer to Oneonta.

Five Days for Vagrancy

Louis Calenzo, 25, of Utica, was sent to the county jail for five days on a vagrancy charge. He was arrested at Phoenicia Saturday by Trooper Dunn and arraigned before Justice William C. Weyman.

12 Boys Climb Fire Tower at Gallis Hill

Twelve boys of the Sons of the Legion enjoyed a hiking trip on Saturday. They hiked to the fire tower at Gallis Hill, meeting first at the Legion building at 9:30 o'clock that morning. The group was in charge of James J. Baker, sergeant-at-arms.

All of the boys were supplied with lunches and some of the boys carried canteens filled with water; others had Sterno cookers, while others had a supply of hot dogs which they cooked after arriving at their destination.

The boys all report an enjoyable time, although they were disappointed in not being able to visit the fire tower. They had forgotten that the tower is closed after the deer season or as soon as the danger from forest fires is considered over.
